Communities work together on Breezeway

By B. J. HETLER
 CONTRIBUTING WRITER

ELLSWORTH — It's early morning in the countryside along county road C-48. Dew lingers on wildflowers giving them a last sip before the sun becomes hot. Mist still blankets the low-lying grasses. Later in the day cars and trucks travel by the fields of corn, farm markets and craft shops. At day's end the sun casts colors of auburn, gold and deep purple along the route.

In this area of northern Michigan it's always a treat for the eyes. The communities of East Jordan, Ellsworth and Atwood realize this and are moving forward in a regional effort known as "Breezeway" to bring business and tourists to the area.

Under a state program known as Centers for Regional Excellence the communities are applying for a state grant to promote the route along C-48 that runs east and west. C-48 runs through downtown East Jordan, skirts Ellsworth and runs to Atwood. Part of the road is in Antrim County where it is a Class A road and part of the road is in Charlevoix County where it is not a Class A road. But if Banks Township supervisor Thomas Mann and Ellsworth Village president Hugh Campbell have anything to say about it, that will change.

"We want to bring it all up to Class A standards," said Thomas Mann, an avid promoter of the Breezeway project. A committee will work with the road commission and the Michigan Department of Transportation and hope to accomplish the upgrade.

Improving the portion of C-48 that needs it is only part of the plan. A grant would fund the "Breezeway" signs created for installation under the C-48 signs.

"We're hoping to bring people into our area. Some of the best farm markets are around here," said Mann. "Agriculture is a lot of what we're selling."

The downtown areas of East Jordan, Ellsworth and Atwood would see an improvement in their business as well.

There is a trend towards regional efforts where expenses are shared, such as marketing and advertising expenses, said East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce president Mary Faculak.

"We've been combining festivals for several years and it's been great," said Faculak. Instead of taking business from any of the festivals, visitors have increased at all of the festivals, she said.

East Jordan Mayor Dan Bennett is working with the Breezeway project.

"It's good for businesses, farming and for the heritage of the area," Bennett said.

The Centers for Regional Excellence grant will be applied for through Great Lakes Economic Alliance. The deadline to apply is Sept. 3. The announcement of grant recipients will take place in late October.

Labor Day weekend brings classic cars to Boyne

By JEFF BERGREN
 EDITOR

BOYNE CITY — A combination of dozens of great classic cars and the proud owners who take such pride in them has turned the annual Labor Day Car Show into a family tradition. The event has been going on for nine years and in that time a total of $42,530 has been donated back to the community.

The 2008 show goes from Aug. 29 through 30 and kicks off at 3 p.m. in the lobby of Boyne Mountain for a welcome reception, a prelude to the cars being shown that evening in downtown Boyne City. You can also sign up for a drawing with a chance to win the grand prize, a free weekend at The Mountain Grand Lodge and Spa, including free water park passes or golf. The drawing will be held at 5 p.m. on Saturday evening at Somerset Pointe.

Mike Stowe and Great Lakes Motor Works along with John McLeod and his team at Classic Instruments have organized the car show over the past nine years, allocating donations to the Boyne City Fire Auxiliary, Boyne City Fire Department, Charlevoix Humane Society and Camp Daggett just to name a few.

This year, Great Lakes Motor Works is passing the torch to the Boyne City Rotary Club to keep up the tradition of the event. The Rotary was chartered in 1922 and has been very active in the community. Fund raising for the Rotary is achieved through donations, grants, concessions, barbeques and now, the 2008 Labor Day Weekend Car Show.

LaMarr Hope, a Rotary member in Boyne City who is helping organize the car show, hopes the event will benefit the community.

"We want to raise money for the community projects funded by the Rotary and to promote the Boyne area with an event that will bring more people to visit the area," Hope said. "I am helping with the Car Show in regards to sponsors and donations."

On Saturday morning, the Car Show weekend continues at Boyne City's Veteran's Memorial Park with registration from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. All trophies will be awarded at 3 p.m. in all categories. There are door prizes for all participants with drawings throughout the day including a $500 gift certificate towards the purchase of tires or wheels from Boyne City Tire and Brake, free golf at Boyne, water park tickets and many more.

On Sunday, the Boyne City Police Department keeps up the car theme with the 6th Annual Drag Racing Fundraiser from 12 to 6 p.m. at the Boyne City Airport.

"Although Boyne Rotary is the sponsor, it really is a community project and we are just the catalyst that brings all the things together that helps the community," Hope added.

On Friday evening, downtown Boyne will once again host "Stroll the Streets" with businesses extending their hours and live musicians and various street entertainment on hand. At 8 p.m., the "Best of Cruise" trophies will be awarded for the best in show for GM, Ford and Mopar.

If you would like more information about the Boyne City Rotary Club and its benefactors or the Car Show, you can contact President Tami Whitley at 231-582-1250 or LaMarr Hope at 231-620-2250.

Husband of embezzler arrested

By B. J. HETLER

CHARLEVOIX — The husband of Karla Lockman, the woman who embezzled more than $850,000 from a local title company, has been arrested for receiving and concealing some of those embezzled funds several years ago.

Kevin Lockman, 35, of Boyne City is charged with using some of the embezzled money after he had deposited it in a personal bank account. He is scheduled to appear for an arraignment on Sept. 2, in the 90th District Court in Charlevoix.

On Aug. 22, 2006, a Charlevoix County Circuit Court jury convicted Karla of embezzlement from her then-employer, and she is serving a five-to-10-year prison sentence in Ypsilanti.

From the time of his wife's arrest, Kevin has maintained that he did not know that Karla had embezzled the funds, but that he believed her when she told him her parents had given her the money.

North Park Street speed limit public information meeting

There will be a public information meeting at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 3, at the Boyne City City Hall Commissioners Room, to address a request to increase the speed limit on N. Park St. between Groveland St. and Wildwood Harbor Rd. within the city limits. The request was made in 2007 and since that time a Traffic Engineering Investigation Team has been established to explore the feasibility of the request. The team consists of Sgt. Jerry Hillborn of the Michigan State Police Traffic Services, James Vanek, Traffic Engineer for the Charlevoix County Road Commission, and Randy Howard, Boyne City Chief of Police. They have conducted two separate speed studies, and the Investigation Team will be present to discuss the results and answer questions. The speed limit is currently 25 MPH and the results of the study recommend an increase in the speed limit. The public is encouraged to attend. For more information or to review the results of the study prior to the meeting contact Chief Randy Howard at 231-582-6611.

East Jordan schools begin school year with grants, new staff

By B. J. HETLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

EAST JORDAN — East Jordan Public Schools welcomes its new middle school principal and two new teachers this school year.

Matt Stevenson, 34, begins as East Jordan Middle School principal in September. Although it was difficult to leave his Kingsley High School students after teaching there for 10 years, Stevenson said he is excited to be a part of the East Jordan schools.

"I jumped at the chance when the East Jordan schools opportunity came up," Stevenson said. "They have a great reputation."

The students come first, he said, and it is the school's responsibility to provide the best education possible. He was influenced by his teachers and coaches and that helped shape his decision to work in education.

Stevenson was active in Outdoor Adventures and led students on trips to Alaska, Wyoming, Colorado and other places.

"The hardest thing all summer was saying goodbye to those kids," he said.

He and his wife, Erin, who is a teacher in Gaylord, have twins, a boy and a girl. They are six-years-old and will attend the East Jordan Elementary School.

Stevenson said his number one focus is to be the best middle school principal he can and to meet as many people as possible.

Karl Redmer who is from East Jordan begins with the East Jordan schools as a social studies and woodshop teacher. His wife, Rebekah, also teaches in East Jordan. They have three children.

Redmer attended the University of Michigan at Flint.

"I am happy to teach in my home town and I am thrilled to be teaching in the same school as my wife, Becky," Redmer said.

Adam Hendry begins with the schools as the director of bands and choir.

His wife, Alison, is the director of bands at Ellsworth and Central Lake schools.

Hendry attended Eastern Michigan University.

He said he was happy about teaching in East Jordan because the students and staff have a great reputation.

"The band is well-established and has room for growth. It has great potential for success," Hendry said.

The East Jordan Public

Schools have been awarded a portion of a $749,909 grant from the state of Michigan. Known as the 21st Century Community Learning Centers Grant, it is a one-year grant that is renewable annually for five years.

Other school districts that were awarded a portion of the grant are Boyne City, Ellsworth, Littlefield and Pellston.

The primary focus of the grant is to provide expanded academic enrichment opportunities for children. Activities will be designed to help students meet local and state academic standards in reading and math. The 21st Century grant programs will provide youth development activities, technology education, art, music, recreation, counseling and character education.

The school districts are partnering with community organizations, such as Crooked Tree Arts Center, Good Samaritan Family Services and the Women's Resource Center for the programs.

East Jordan Public Schools will also benefit from a $3,000 grant from the Michigan Integrated Behavior Learning Support Initiative. This grant will help to provide focused attention on students who need it.

Boyne City Superintendent excited for students' return

By JEFF BERGREN
EDITOR

BOYNE CITY — With plenty of changes taking place for the upcoming school year in Boyne City, Superintendent Robert Alger is more eager for the kids to return than anything else after a long summer vacation.

"Maybe this goes back to my days as a high school principal, but I'm always excited to get the kids back in school," Alger said. "So my number one excitement is for the students' return and visiting with the little guys as they get off the bus."

While the kids get ready to come back, the school system has received some good news during the break. As a district, Boyne City was awarded a couple of grant opportunities. Along with the 21st Century grant for the elementary building, the middle school was awarded a MiBLSI (Michigan's Integrated Behavior & Learning Support Initiative) that deals with behavior and behavioral modification as they are related to instruction and learning. It also enhances the before and after school programs.

"It requires close monitoring of student performance and early intervention of students who are not performing academically," Alger explained. "Implementing it has shown great promise in our elementary school."

Some other changes include Karen Sherwood taking over as Middle School principal, replacing Mindy Porter after she left the district this summer to accept a position in Arizona. Sherwood has been in the district for 14 years. Also, Jamie Baumann has replaced Chad Culver as the Middle School Student Success Adviser and brings 20 years of experience to the job. Baumann's husband is the new Chamber Director in Boyne.

Over the summer, Alger said the summer school program was executed differently and he is enthusiastic about the impact of the changes.

Bob Alger

"We reduced the number of days that summer school was conducted during the week but added weeks to the length of the program. Our intention is to reduce the amount of down time during the summer that students in the program were without instruction," Alger added. "We also identified, and then required, specific instructional strategies for summer school that all staff would use. We felt if we were going to use student performance data to evaluate our program, we needed to reduce the variables that we control which impact learning."

Alger said as they head into the new year he would still like to do a better job informing his constituents of the impact of the new graduation standards on all of the students. He said kids will have to perform at a much higher standard than even 10 years ago if they plan to graduate.

"So much of a student's academic success is impacted by the involvement of parents and guardians. Often times as humans we typically refer to 'how it was when I was young,' or 'when I was in school,' as being satisfactory to meet the needs of today," Alger said. "In education, that is not true...Schools and parents have to expect more from their child's performance at school."

During Alger's time as Superintendent, he has seen many issues. When Alger arrived, he said there was some labor unrest due to budget cuts. He adjusted his style to be more open and believes that has been appreciated by employees and members of the community when they visit the Superintendent. At a minimum, during that time, Alger said some feelings were hurt because of how the process was handled. He makes sure to have everything out in the open with his staff and community members when making decisions.

Some other things Alger has learned on the job are what he describes as an outstanding staff.

"I also believe that in the last couple of years, we have done an outstanding job keeping up with the changes that are taking place in education. That does not happen without great building leadership and staff who trust in those leaders to work on and implement those changes," Alger commented. "Some of the specific changes include changes to the Grade Level Content Expectations and in some instances, courses taught at one grade level now being taught at another. Also, the trimester formats in high school in an attempt to better prepare students for 'on-time' graduation, and seriously looking at our instructional delivery practices as a true method to impact learning."

Alger described his staff and the students as a reflection of the community and hard working and caring individuals. He said the staff and many parents care deeply about the children's education and take it very seriously.

"I see a staff that truly cares about the well being of our students. I invite those who don't believe me to come watch the tears in the eyes of our staff on the last day next spring when the students go home for the summer," Alger said. "And the students the same."

Success begins with the homework environment

Sensible tips for helping children with their homework

Parents want their children to get good grades in school. Unfortunately, not every parent knows how best to help their children meet academic challenges, including completion of homework assignments. So, how do parents maximize their child's chances for success in school? Start by creating a personalized home environment that is conducive to homework and learning.

"Sometimes, parents think helping their child complete his homework, or even doing their child's homework for him, will help him achieve better grades in school," states Luhr, Center Director of Sylvan Learning. "Often, just the opposite occurs. You've created a situation where your child has not learned the concepts and when he is later tested on in material he struggles."

"A simple way to help your child with homework is by creating an atmosphere that works with your child to efficiently tackle school tasks. Really get to know your child's personal homework style and develop an individualized plan for school success," states Luhr.

Sylvan Learning offers parents the following tips and advice to develop a homework plan for back-to-school success:

1. Set Goals. Help your child set attainable goals for each class and help her identify what will need to be done to reach each goal. For example, to get an A in American History she will need to turn in all her homework, participate in class, etc.
2. Know Your Child. There are visual (seeing), auditory (hearing), and haptic (doing) learners. If you help your child work within his personal style, he will work more effectively.
3. Create a Homework Zone. Set up an area in your home for studying that is free from potential distractions, well-lit and comfortable. Be certain the study tools your child needs such as: paper, pencils, computer, dictionary, calculator, etc. are at his fingertips to keep him focused on homework.

4. Schedule Homework Time. Choose an hour a day that is always set aside as homework time. Choose this hour based on your child's preferences; some students do best right after school, where others need a break before returning to their schoolwork. Make sure to keep this consistent each school day.

5. Develop Class Files. Develop a color-coded file for each of your child's classes. Make separate tabs for needs to be turned-in homework, returned homework assignments, notes, and exams and projects. Keeping the material organized so she can refer back to class materials when studying for comprehensive tests.

6. Set Weekly Milestones. For big projects or exams, get a large calendar for your child's desk area and help him set short timelines to ensure projects and studying aren't left until the night before. Celebrate with your child when each milestone is met.

"By working with your child to develop a plan to efficiently complete homework tasks, you will find higher grades, fewer homework headaches and a more confident child as a result," states Luhr.

We'll always make time for you.

Boyne City teacher retires after 37 years

By JEFF BERGREN
EDITOR

BOYNE CITY — Over the past 37 years, Corine Babb has been a fixture at the Boyne City Elementary School. After a long career, Babb decided to retire this past June and is looking forward to the next phase in her life.

"I'm going to miss the whole thing but I'm ready. I'm ready to start something different, or do something different and get back in shape," Babb said. "I like learning and I always wanted to learn to play the piano. I'll go to one of the teachers in the school and take piano lessons. I love to read and paint, so I don't know; the world is my oyster right now."

Babb started her career in Iowa City, Iowa, and worked for three years in their education system. Greg Smith, a friend of Babb and former owner of the Boyne Citizen, contacted her about a vacancy, and after interviewing for the position she was hired.

Babb has mainly taught 3rd grade but also handled teaching duties for 4th, 5th and 6th graders in all subjects. She has lived in Boyne City for 35 years and is married with four children.

"I like being around kids and it was not a hard job for me when I started out. It was what I wanted to do. I think the biggest thing I have taken away from teaching is that as long as you treat kids with respect and dignity, you get a lot out of them," Babb commented. "The golden rule has kind of been my motto all the way through and it never failed me. Once kids start to put themselves in other people's shoes they really see how they should respond and behave towards one another."

Principal Fred Sitkins, who begins his 9th year at Boyne City Elementary, said Babb will be sorely missed.

"Corine Babb has been a rock for our school system. She is one of the best educators that I have ever had the opportunity to work with. Her love for children and her ability to develop individual relationships with all of her students was remarkable," Sitkins said. "However, her influence was not just restricted to the students that she taught. She had a positive influence on the majority of our student population as she was probably most famous for her birthday kisses."

Sitkins said the children referred to Babb's trademark birthday kisses as being babbitized. Babb would kiss a student on the cheek with extremely bright red lipstick that would literally stick with the child, sometimes for days.

"I'm going to miss that (smooching the children). Kids I don't even know come up and want to be babbitized and that's been fun. It's almost like my legacy lately," Babb explained. "I might have to come back and do that."

Babb said she was going to miss the staff at the school, which she described as incredible. She said the new teachers coming in are unbelievably talented and they kept her young with their enthusiasm. She also credited Sitkins for being a great principal and enjoyed working for him.

"Obviously we are going to miss the impact that she had on children and families. She certainly provided a level of comfort and security for many families as they turned over their most precious gifts each day of the school year," Sitkins said. "However, for me personally I believe that we have lost one of the greatest assets to the staff as a whole. Every teacher respected Corine for her teaching knowledge and ability and she was always available to lending a helping hand where needed. I went to Corine often for advice and even encouragement and she always provided what I needed."

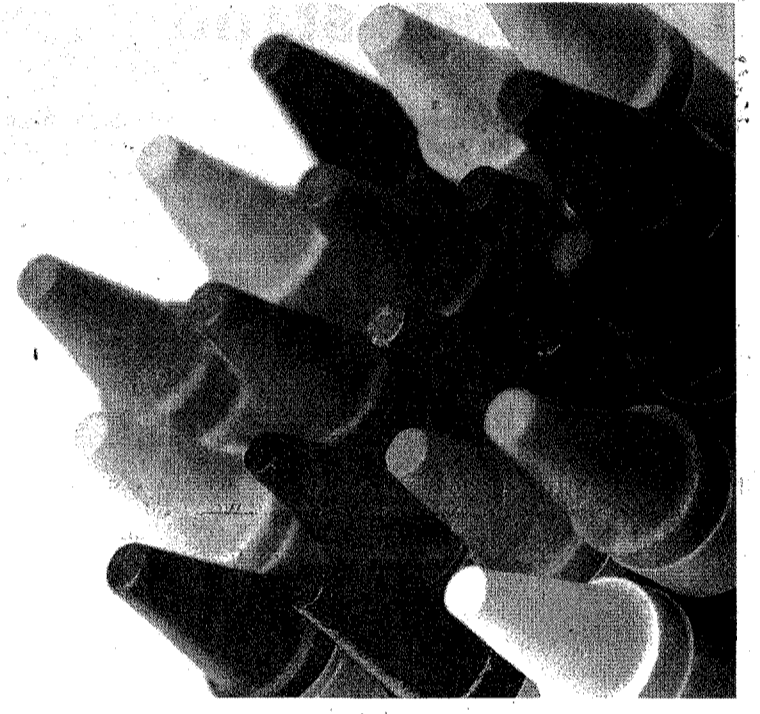

Mary Jo Powers will be replacing Babb, transferring from the second grade and has been teaching in Boyne City for eight years.

Babb's final comment of course, had to do with kids.

"Academics are really important, but sometimes it's too emphasized. I think we lose sight of the kids. They are individuals, you have to look at the emotional and social aspects and all that stuff," Babb concluded.

Boyne City Preschool welcomes new teacher

By JEFF BERGREN

BOYNE CITY — The Boyne City Preschool has brought in Susan Variot as the new lead teacher for their four-year-old program. Variot comes to Boyne from the Mancelona community and has an Associates degree in early childhood education and is continuing on to obtain a Bachelor's degree in Early Childhood.

Variot, who is married with three kids, has worked with children in the Mancelona area over the past eight years. Her experience includes, head start programs, working within Concord Academy Antrim as well as the Mancelona Preschool.

"I am very delighted to have this opportunity to work with students and family members this coming school year. I feel that children learn best through play, hands-on activities in a caring, and nurturing environment," Variot said. "I am looking forward to the upcoming year and I am very excited to be joining the energetic team that works here at the Boyne City Preschool."

Variot still lives in Mancelona but is happy to be working in the Boyne City community. She has studied the area and likes what she sees in terms of the atmosphere for children.

"What I have observed of Boyne, it seems to be a very warm and welcoming place for children and parents," Variot commented. "The community seems very committed and supportive of children's learning and development."

The staff welcomed Variot aboard last Wednesday at the preschool as she gets ready to start her first year in Boyne City.

A questionable ruling

The laws in our country seem to be fair and just. Michigan, as all the states, has laws specifically for repeat violators that were made to penalize habitual offenders. If you are sentenced as a habitual offender the penalty is often more severe, which would put you in the pokey longer than a first-time offender convicted of the same crime.

A recent article about the Michigan Supreme Court detailed a curious decision. The court recently put the habitual offender idea in another light when it reversed its previous rulings and decided that criminals can be sentenced as habitual offenders if their felony convictions stem from the same criminal act.

What? Two cases, one in 1987 and 1990, the state Supreme Court ruled that according to the law, convictions arising from one criminal incident shouldn't be counted more than once to give defendants habitual offender status. However, five of seven justices ruled that the habitual offender law contemplates counting each prior felony conviction separately. The article specifically states these rulings and upon further research, it is on the books.

What this new interpretation does is open up a Pandora's Box. There is the possibility of a greater disparity in sentencing for similar crimes. Like the author of this article, I believe the original interpretation of the law's intent was correct. People who continue to break the law should be subject to stricter penalties than citizens who are first time offenders.

We need some clarification. This latest interpretation will not change unless action is taken to clarify the legal mumbo jumbo.

People who commit multiple crimes and do jail time should conceivably learn their lesson. In cases where the person ends up back in court for three, four or five times should be subject to harsher rulings each additional crime. I'm just not sure what the new law means and would like an explanation. The story came through an AP wire and after I reviewed the article several times I was still unsure of how wide ranging these implications can be for similar crimes.

Lemonade stand

To the editor:
I just wanted to let you know more about the lemonade stand started by Connor Lannen. Last week he was out of town and myself, my son and another mother and friend of Connor's were running the stand for him. Mid-way through we ran out of ice and called Connor's dad, Mark Lannen, who had helped us set up the stand earlier, for more ice.

While he was delivering the ice, a police officer on a bike, Officer Kevin Spate, gave him a ticket for stopping in the middle of the street. I asked Officer Spate to please give him a warning as he was just helping us out, but he said it was the second call he had received.

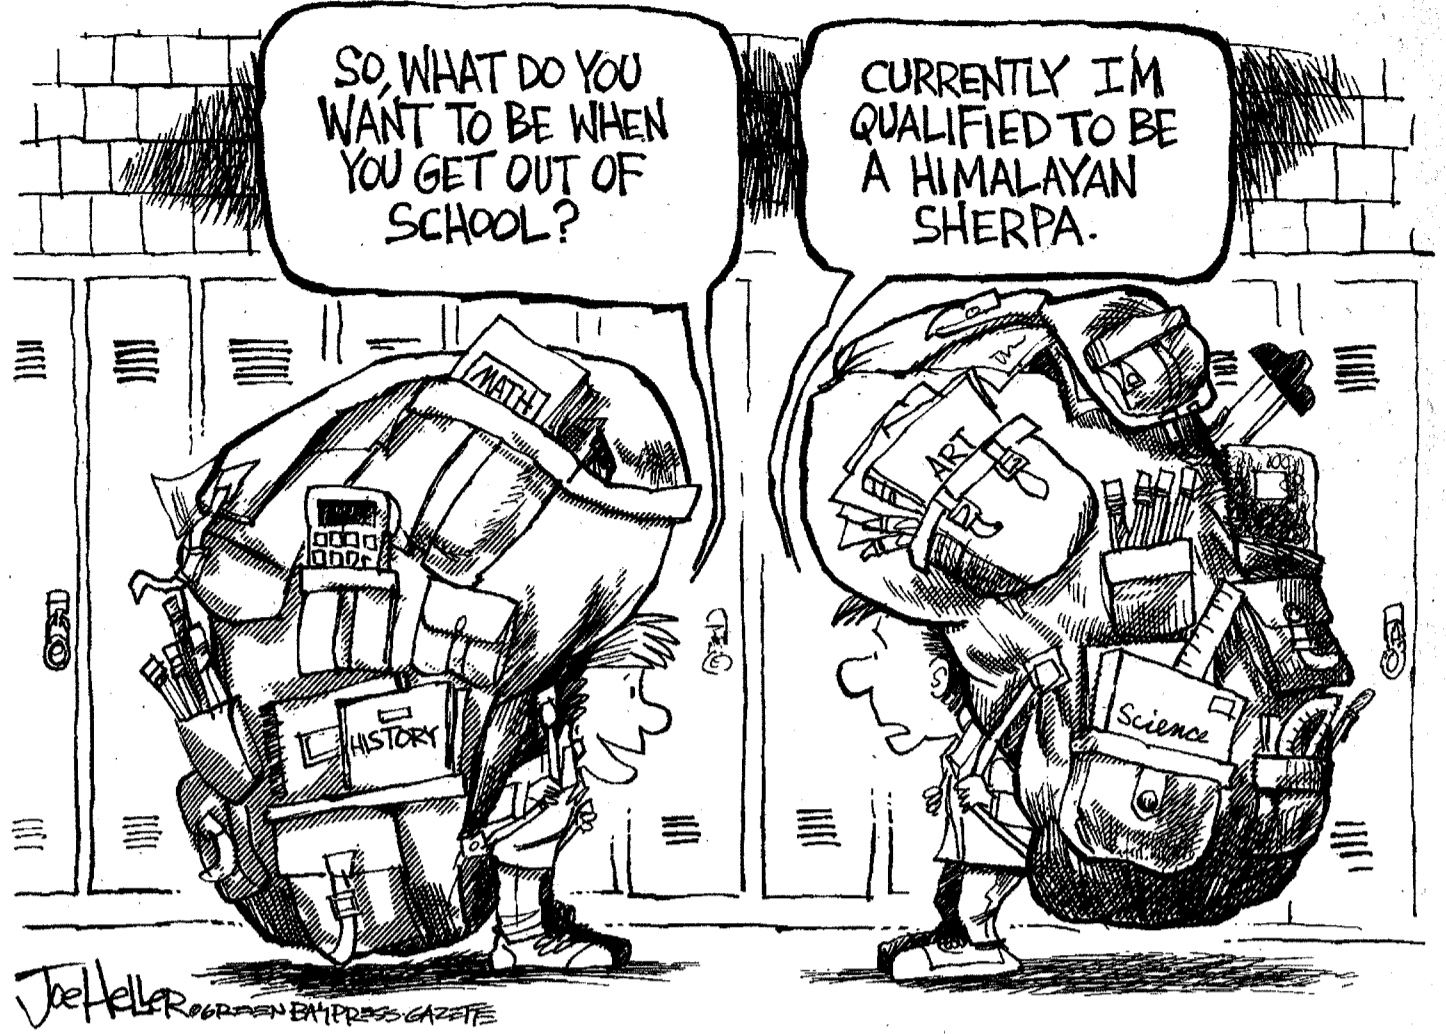

I am not asking that we above the law because we are doing something for a good cause, but why couldn't Officer Spate have offered to help Mark deliver the ice to us so that he could be on his way? As it was, it took much longer to give Mark a ticket and backed up traffic which almost caused an accident. I truly don't think Officer Spate was thinking about the larger picture and I am disappointed about this. Usually Boyne City police are on top of helping the people in the community, but I feel they really dropped the ball on this one.

The glossary of cool

Other than in books and old movies, I've never heard anything referred to as the cat's pajamas. And yet, that is precisely the phrase that I used today in my enthusiasm over a friend's good news.

"You're kidding me," I said. "That is the cat's pajamas!"
Where did this come from? I'll admit that I'm seasoned, but I was never a flapper. Could "23-skiddoo" and "so's your old man" be very far behind?

It's interesting that this phrase has apparently been occupying space in my head, waiting for the opportunity to rattle off my tongue. Mining the depths of defunct colloquialisms, it seems more likely that I would resurrect far-out or groovy. These expressions were at least popular during my lifetime, although rarely employed without the risk of ridicule.

On what I recall as a mortifying bus ride - a junior high school field trip - I heard the news that the Beatles were going to tour America.

"Fab," I breathed. "Faaaab."
"Fab?" Gary Kem swiveled in his seat to stare at me. "Is it fab? Are the Beatles fab? Oh, that is so fab!"

Well, the press did refer to them as the Fab Four. Was it my fault that current cultural idioms had failed to infiltrate Flint, Michigan? Was I the only one who read the entertainment section? Did I stand alone in my grooviness?

I never uttered the word fab again, except in reference to the laundry detergent. I did, however, manage to work other expressions into my vocabulary with the doggedness of an aspiring hipster.

"Right on," I would agree. "That's outrageous!"
Or, "Total bummer, man," I'd mutter, shaking my head in empathy.

The disingenuous and the delightful became bogue (subsequently, bogus) and bitchin', respectively. To Bogart was to selfishly deprive others of a savory snack, or some such similar refreshment, as in "Don't Bogart those chips, my friend. Pass them over to me."

Although in retrospect, this jargon may seem quaint, at the time it was a flag of one's affiliation. Just like it's predecessor, the cat's pajamas, it signaled membership in the Club of Cool.

My introduction to a master of this wordplay was serendipitous and arrived conveniently at my doorstep.

When I was nine years old, my parents hired a neighborhood high school girl with a towering beehive hairdo to babysit for my brother and me. I've forgotten her name, but her boyfriend called her Frenchie. She told me this was a nickname bestowed because she was studying French, but I have come to believe that this was a ruse.

The boyfriend would arrive shortly after my parent's departure. They would adjourn to the family room couch, leaving me to what-ever unsupervised activity I pleased. This often included eavesdropping shamelessly on their conversations. More than their teenage ardor, it was the language that intrigued me.

Frenchie's boyfriend was what was known as a greaser - discernable by his high-gloss ducktail hairdo, pegged jeans and the pack of Luckies rolled into the sleeve of his tee shirt. And the boy was a blistering wordsmith.

"Knock me a kiss, baby," he would coo in the throes of passion. "You are Doll City."

Later, he would suggest that my caregiver prepare a bite to eat, urging her to "rattle those pots and pans." He would sit at our kitchen table while she raided the fridge, regaling her with repartee that was the verbal equivalent of a bongo drum solo;

"Jackson's a real L7 and his class is a stone drag. I am totally Swiss on that whole civics trip. I want the info with no show. I wish he'd just hit us and cut the rap."

From my vantage point on the stairs I sat enthralled, attempting to crack the code. I marveled that it seemed to simulate actual conversation, only with considerably more plumage. It occurred to me that this was a great way to communicate that would effectively exclude the uninitiated, including parents and other L7s. It was almost the equivalent of being bilingual.

Considering these early influences, it's not surprising that I would drop a phrase that hasn't seen the light of day since grandma wore garters.

But why couldn't multi-generations blend the best of their lingo into the cauldron of communication? Why should these colorful catchphrases be assigned a timeframe and then relegated to the dustbin after only a few years of garnishing our vocabulary? Let's pull those tiny pajamas out of mothballs and see how they fit contemporary cats and kittens. It could be the bee's knees.

R U primed to dig it? Sweet.

NEIGHBORS

The Grand Rapids group from BCHS Class of 1958 met for dinner on Aug. 20 at Cheers in Grand Rapids. They are still talking about the great 50th class reunion they had last month. Present were Bob and Kathy Christensen, Jerry and Nancy Green, Fred and Kris (Rouse) Shassberger, Carol (Reinhardt) Heffington, and Nelda (Kindy) Stanley. They were also pleased to have Judy (Gunderson) Cobb from the BCHS class of 1960, and her husband, Paul, join them. Of course they shared pictures of the class reunion, passed the reunion book around and basically got caught up on everything and everyone. The group meets once a month in the Grand Rapids area, usually on the third Wednesday of the month, and welcomes anyone from Boyne to join them if they are in the area.

There was a good turnout, about 150 or so, last Sunday for a delicious finger lickin' barbeque at the pavilion in Boyne Falls. It was a fine time with a music treat too. It was the way the Polish Festival Committee expresses their appreciation to all those workers of that great annual event.

Heartfelt sympathies go out to the family and friends of David Seeley, 53, who passed away this past week. The same sentiments go out to the family and friends of Irene Nemecek, 80, of East Jordan.

Lovely Florence Hoelezley of Litzenger Place is now residing at Grandvue.

Pam and Mike Smith of Farmington were here for a long weekend, visiting her mother, Gen Varnuin, and family.

To honor former Boyne residents Steve and Judy Knapp of Gladwin for 40 years of marriage, there will be a picnic on Saturday, Aug. 30, at the gazebo at the park in Walloon Lake, from 2 to 5 p.m. Bring a dish to pass in joining the celebration or just stop by to wish them well and share stories.

A belated happy anniversary goes out to the Rev. Richard and wife Pamela (Hegerberg) Schmidt of Cincinnati, Ohio. They were here with friends, Bishop and Mrs. Kenneth Price of Columbus, staying at the Wolverine Dilworth Hotel for about five days. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cox and daughter of Buxton, England, stayed at Water Street Inn, where more good friends joined the celebrating couple for their 40 years together. The friends were in awe of seeing the many beautiful sites of northern Michigan, including dining at Shanty Creek Lodge, where Pam and Dick met, and at Ellsworth's Rowe Inn with more good friends, Dr John and Diane Hale of Ashville, N.C., and Gregg and Dee Smith of Traverse City. On their last night here, they enjoyed dinner with close family friends, sisters, Anne Ward and Betty Spencer.

Jerry and Sara Davis of Durango, Colo., are here visiting his mother Florine Davis and other friends. It was also a celebration of his birthday and an early celebration of his mother's 99th birthday on Sept. 30.

Niece, Cathy MacNamara of Traverse City, spent Sunday here with aunt, Marie Schmittiel. Marie was also pleased by a visit from grandson, Brandon Conlin, who was en route to beginning his junior year at the university in Syracuse, N.Y.

Woody and Penny Hardy of Boyne City flew to Kalispell, Mont., for a two-week vacation, or honeymoon trip they never had, in an early celebration of their 38th wedding anniversary in November. They spent five days hiking in Glacier Park and another five days in Yellowstone Park and one day at the Grand Tetons. They had a great time, took lots of pictures and videos and did lots of journaling in memory of a really fun time of just the two of them together.

There was a good turnout of BCHS classmates of 1959 on Wednesday for a 1 p.m. lunch at the BRL. Some discussion was in planning for their upcoming 50th reunion in Aug. 2009. Attending were George Shiotelis, Mary (Bean) and Merle Carson, Jack and Judy Gerrie, Janice (Keopke) Juday, Peggy (Inman) Aimesbury, Jerry Davis, Sandra (Boyer) Taszarek, Mary (Balliet) Peters, Judy (Hartlep) Owen and Nancy Northup. The next meeting will be at the same time, same place, on Oct. 8.

The BCHS class of '47 met Sunday, Aug. 17 at Fall Park for their 61st annual picnic. The 26 gathering there enjoyed the beautiful day, good food and fun and good conversation. Their next lunch date, Sept. 18, will be a late lunch at 4 p.m., at 220 Lake Street.

Aten Place closes its 2008 season with The Ragbirds

The Ragbirds will be the final concert this year at Aten Place on Saturday, Aug. 30, at 7:30 p.m. Eclectic and energetic may be the best way to describe their music. The Ragbirds will bring creative and original music that combines global elements that are sure to please everyone and provide a dramatic close to a great season at the barn.

The Ragbirds musical roots are firmly embedded in the soil of rhythm, ancient and new, incorporating Americana, Gypsy, Celtic, and Latin influences with drums from all over the world, mixing African poly-rhythms and Afro-Cuban tumbao, over sometimes rock, hip-hop or reggae style drum-kit, all designed to get people both listening and up and dancing.

In live performances the band incorporates variations on traditional African drum pieces, each member trading their instrument for a nearby hand drums. The band has a strong belief in the lyricism of poetry and positive music, and the power of dance-able rhythm.

Aten Place is located 1/2 mile south of Cherry Hill Road on Old Mackinaw Trail in Boyne Falls. The venue is a ninety-year-old oak frame barn with seating for 180, overlooking the Boyne River valley, in the shadow of Boyne Mountain. All tickets are $10 at the door. Tickets go on sale at 5 p.m. the day of the concert, with performances beginning at 7:30 p.m. Aten Place is a non-profit endeavor, and no food or beverage is sold on the premises. Many patrons bring snacks and desserts to share at intermission. There is also a new covered picnic pavilion for those who wish to come early and enjoy the grounds and peaceful setting.

For more information on this summer's schedule go to www.atenplace.com or call Bill or Maxine Aten at 231-549-2076.

OBITUARY

Shirley Kincheloe

Mrs. Shirley A. (Parish) Kincheloe of Boyne Falls, passed away Aug. 16, 2008, at Northern Michigan Regional Hospital after a long battle with kidney disease.

She was born Nov. 21, 1954, at War Memorial Hospital in Sault Ste. Marie. She graduated from Brimley High School in 1972. Shortly after graduating, she married the love of her life, Don Kincheloe of Miller, S.D. on Nov. 17, 1973. In 1973, they moved to Miller, S.D., where they had their first son, Don Jr. In 1976, they made their home in Southern Calif., where they had their second son Clayton. Shirley took a position at the Orange County Indian Center where she helped Native Americans with education counseling and job placement. Shirley and her family moved back to Northern Michigan in 1988 where they made their home in Boyne Falls until her death. The diagnosis of a rare kidney disease inevitably forced her to stop working in 1985. During her long battle with the disease, Shirley received a donated kidney from her eldest son, Don Jr., in 1997. She was a member of the St. Augustine Catholic Church in Boyne Falls and the Bay Mills Indian Community.

Her parents, Clayton and Leila Parish, a brother, Alan Parish, and a sister-in-law, Kim, preceded her in death.

She is survived by her husband, Don of Boyne Falls, and two children Donald (Jill Slater) of Bay Mills and Clayton of Petoskey. She is also survived by her only sister Luella (Gene) Raymond of Sault Ste. Marie, and five brothers, L. John Lukins, Philip Parish, Clinton J. Parish, Dennis A. Parish, Gary W. Parish and Gordon L. Parish all of Bay Mills. Shirley was blessed with two beautiful grandchildren, Kayla and Shame Kincheloe, who will miss her dearly.

Visitation was held Wednesday, Aug. 20, at Blessed Kateri Tekakwitha Catholic Church in Bay Mills. Mass of Christian Burial was on Thursday Aug. 21, with Brother John Hascall as Celebrant. Burial will be held on Saturday, Aug. 30, at 1 p.m., at Mission Hill Cemetery with Father Ted Brodeur officiating.

Clark Bailey Newhouse Funeral Home is assisting the family with arrangements.

Business Resource Centers opened for business in local libraries

Jordan Valley District Library, teaming up with the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce and Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, announces the opening of a Business Resource Center in the library. "This is really a one stop location for starting a small business. Those entrepreneurs who are starting a business, or considering it, can find valuable print and electronic resources to help them with market and industry research," said Dawn Pringle, Director of the Jordan Valley District Library.

There are reference materials covering many relevant business topics, as well as a wide variety of suggested federal state and local websites to assist with business formations and business planning. In addition to resource material, there will also be free and confidential business counseling with a certified business counselor from the Small Business and Technology Development Center onsite. The library will regularly host "How To Start a Small Business" workshops for those who have never been in business but are contemplating it and need some guidance to get started. For those that take advantage of the free and confidential business counseling, they will also have access to very valuable market data and powerful research tools to help with industry focus, business planning, and marketing strategy. Call Northern Lakes Economic Alliance at 231-582-6482 for more information or to schedule a business counseling appointment.

"Our community is committed to helping entrepreneurs at every stage. We want to help new and existing businesses grow and succeed and believe that this is one of the many ways we can bring resources to the business community," said Mary Faculak, Executive Director of the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

The new Business Resource Centers in East Jordan and Charlevoix were generously supported by a financial gift from Charlevoix State Bank. Mike Hinkle, President, said "We are very pleased to be able to support efforts aimed at helping our communities focus on fostering the entrepreneurial spirit. Small business is very important to us, so bringing additional services to the business community that will leverage the talents, skills and passion of entrepreneurs is the right thing to do."

Centers are also offered at the Charlevoix Public Library, the Boyne District Library and the Northwest Michigan Works Office in Petoskey and are part of a larger focus for the Entrepreneurial Division of Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. A business incubator program, a support system that accelerates the successful development of existing and start-up businesses by providing entrepreneurs with access to targeted resources and services is being rolled out this Fall. The "Creating Entrepreneurial Communities" initiative, a program built around the premise that communities can build an entrepreneurial culture where diversity and innovative thinking are welcomed is another key program in several communities, including East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Community foundation awards grant to Free Clinic

The Lakeshore Community Free Clinic recently received funds to purchase an EKG machine and a defibrillator for the clinic. Clinic physician Richard Mansfield was very excited.

"We have many patients that we need to run an EKG on so that we can properly diagnose and treat them. This and the defibrillator have been something we have been working on getting since we opened. We are very grateful to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for the grant."

The Lakeshore Community Free Clinic is open every Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for anyone in Charlevoix County who is in need of health care and does not have insurance. There are no income limitations. It is located at 624 State St. in Boyne City.

According to Kathy Helsley, Clinic Director, a very large percentage of Charlevoix County citizens are living without insurance. Many employers can no longer afford to offer this benefit to their employees. Because of this, many families, in the past, have had to make the decision to either buy food or go to the doctor. The Free Clinic is working to eliminate that dilemma.

The clinic is run by donations from the communities. Donations can be sent to PO Box 933, Boyne City, MI 49712. For more information about the clinic, call 231-582-6828.

August is National Immunization Month

Late summer is a good time to review immunization records for everyone in the family, say local public health officials. Certain vaccines are encouraged from infancy on through adulthood to prevent serious, and sometimes life-threatening, diseases.

According to Joshua Meyerson, MD, Medical Director for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, infants are especially vulnerable to diseases that could be passed on from school-aged brothers and sisters.

"That is why it is so important to protect the entire family through immunizations," he said. "We urge parents to protect their children and adolescents against once-deadly diseases, such as meningitis, tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough, and cervical cancer by keeping up-to-date on immunizations."

Each year, hundreds of children in Michigan become ill from diseases that could have been prevented if their immunizations were complete.

"Many parents do not realize that some childhood vaccines, such as those for tetanus and whooping cough, wear off over time and, as they get older, young people are at risk of exposure to different diseases at school, camp or in other new situations," said Meyerson.

"As you bring your children in for their well-child checkups or sports physicals, ask their health care provider to check their immunization status, including when to come back for the flu vaccine. At the same time, it would be a good idea to make sure that the whole family is completely up-to-date on immunizations."

The US Centers for Disease Control & Prevention recommends 11- and 12-year-olds, as well as teenagers who have not already received them, get the Tdap vaccine to protect them against tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis, and the vaccine that protects against meningitis. In addition, the HPV vaccine for most cervical cancers, is recommended for girls and young women.

Adults and the elderly, especially those with underlying health concerns, should receive an annual flu shot as well as age-appropriate shots to guard against tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis, measles, mumps, rubella, meningococcal, and Hepatitis A and B.

In 2008 there have been more cases of measles, a highly contagious viral disease, in the United States since 1997. So far this year, seven distinct measles outbreaks, including an outbreak in Cadillac, with a total of more than 130 cases, have been reported across the country. Each of the cases involved largely un-immunized groups and sparked by a case from another part of the world.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality health care, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties. Through a centralized statewide immunization registry, Health Department staff can help identify the "shots" everyone in the family needs. Immunization appointments are available at Health Department offices in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties. For additional information, call 800-432-4121 or visit www.cdc.gov/vaccines.

RHYME OR REASON

By Chris Tredway

Slippery

The sound of long, slightly curved fingernails scratching slowly down the surface of a chalk board is unpleasant. Faces contort throughout the classroom as the noise crawls beneath the skin, rippling down the spine of students, who plug their ears and squirm in their seats.

As unnerving as nails on slate may be, the sound of aluminum bouncing across synthetic rubber is hideous. The stuff of nightmares.

This second sound, an eerie melody of "clinks" and "tonks," is joined by thousands of people gasping in unison. It is the unmistakable sound of a botched relay hand-off. The aluminum baton is misplaced, fumbled and dropped to the track at some 25 miles per hour.

The two sprinters involved in the catastrophe go wide-eyed for a moment, arms flailing in a vain attempt to recover the instrument before slumping over in defeat, eyes closed and hearts on the verge of popping.

For two pairs of American sprinters, following the Olympic 400-meter relay preliminaries Aug. 21, the sound resembles like a bad song stuck in their heads.

Millions of television viewers arched their eyebrows in surprise Thursday evening, staring at their screens in disbelief as American sprinters Torii Edwards and Lauryn Williams failed to make the final exchange, dropping the baton and disqualifying themselves.

Williams, who seems cursed in the 400-meter relay, chalked up her second failed Olympic hand-off, the first being four years ago in Athens with Marion Jones. But in Beijing, Williams was only following the example set by the men, who committed relay suicide moments before in their preliminary.

Flying into the final 20-meter exchange zone ahead of second-place Trinidad and Tobago, the American men looked to continue their relay dominance. As the zone boundary approached in a hurry, Darvis Patton still held the baton. Running anchor, Tyson Gay excelled with arm extended, waiting for the feel of cool metal to fall into his hand.

"And there was nothing," Gay told ESPN.

Nothing indeed, as Patton's final attempt

East Jordan hosts five-team scrimmage

By CHRIS TREDWAY
 SPORTS EDITOR

EAST JORDAN — Football teams from Arenac, Bellaire, Onkama and Onaway may have been shocked Thursday, Aug. 21, if they arrived at East Jordan's five-team gathering with the intention of having a friendly scrimmage.

Although the scoreboard wasn't needed, trusted protective gear was certainly a must, as one thing quickly became clear down on the field. These boys were hitting, and from the sound of it, hitting hard.

East Jordan came out swinging on visiting teams, establishing their intent to defend their home field this season, accelerating off the ball on defense and striking quickly on offense.

"I was happy with what I saw," East Jordan coach Bill Tison said. "They were doing things right. We got a chance to look at all the kids, see who's hitting and who's nervous."

In the opening scrimmage, where each team ran 15 offensive plays before switching to defense, East Jordan lined up against Onaway and intercepted the ball early.

They continued a dominating role as the Red Devil's junior quarterback Teddy Snowden got his hands on the ball for the first time Thursday afternoon. Three plays later, starting from the 40 yard line, East Jordan found the end zone. The ball was placed at the 40 once again with time running out for the Devils, who held off the Onaway defense long enough on the next play for Snowden to throw 40 yards deep for another touchdown.

Though the scoreboard did not award their efforts, and the purpose of the event was to simply give coaches a closer view of their own teams, East Jordan came away looking like anything but underdogs in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"We hope execute our plays," Snowden said of the season opener against Glen Lake tomorrow (Thursday). "I know our defense has my back 100 percent. So we hope to come out and prove a lot of people wrong. Most of the league thinks we're underdogs, but everyone around here knows we're not."

After showing signs in the scrimmage of possessing a useful passing game, East Jordan appears to be ready to defend their field with the score board running. According to Snowden, the team is not short on running backs.

"We have everything," he said, looking back out to the CENTRAL LAKE — The 2008 high school cross country season opened Saturday, Aug. 23, when two local teams traveled to the Shay Memorial Invitational hosted by Central Lake High School.

Lightning and thunder delayed the start of the race for two hours and as a result the race was shortened to a two-mile run in wet conditions. Teams from East Jordan and Boyne Falls were among the 11 schools competing.

Boys and girls runners at the varsity, junior varsity and junior high level all hit the course in one single race, with the top 25 finishers receiving medals.

"It went real well," said Central Lake's boys coach Joe Shay. "We had a couple of runners that ran exceptionally good races. There weren't a lot of complete teams running, but it's still early for training. Overall it was a lot of fun."

The East Jordan girls varsity team had three medalists and posted a score of 34 points to finish behind Ellsworth's winning total of 21.

BEYOND THE STATS

The world's greatest

By PHIL TROMBLEY

Ah yes. These are the best of times, these are the best of times. The Olympics are in full swing.

Aside from some slight eye strain, a serious lack of sleep and a creeping sense of boob tube brain, I must say that I am thoroughly enjoying myself. The more I see of this quadrennial spectacle from Beijing the more I am struck by the immensity of the event.

Sandwiched between the awesome pageantry of the opening ceremonies and the joyous exuberance of the closing festivities, the world wide audience is treated to weeks of intense competition waged at a multitude of venues.

With so many sports to watch, so many athletes to follow and so many teams to cheer for, the Olympic Games are enough to entertain fans throughout the world. On any level, ranging from mild human interest to absolute national devotion, there is a lot to cheer about.

Give the Chinese credit for all the work and preparation that must have gone into putting on the show. Judging from the crowds in attendance, it is clear to see that the host people are certainly enjoying their place on the world stage.

At any given time, seemingly twenty four hours a day, one can tune in to catch the excitement unfolding and become absorbed in the drama of the moment.

If you go for speed, it is evident on the track, or at the Velodrome, or in the pool. If you marvel at agility, you can watch gymnastics or diving. If you enjoy teamwork you can follow baseball, soccer, volleyball or basketball. There is a bit of everything to pique the interest of anyone anywhere.

If nothing else, the Olympics are colorful. Of course, the three important colors are gold, silver and bronze. Every other hue imaginable is visible on the uniforms the competitors wear, as well as the flags they wave while representing the countries they love.

The Olympic flag flies every four years as a symbol of this gathering, where all nations can come together with a single goal — the pursuit of excellence at the highest level. The five rings of blue, yellow, black, green and red linked together against a solid white background is simply a majestic tribute to sport for sport's sake.

So yes, it is a huge show and I am enjoying it as much as I can. Tune in in another four years.

Devils fall to Glen Lake

By PHIL TROMBLEY
SPORTS WRITER

GLEN LAKE — East Jordan's varsity soccer season opened with a road trip to Glen Lake on Thursday, Aug. 21, with a frustrating result as the Red Devils failed to find the back of the net.

Glen Lake goalkeeper Ryan Black recorded the shutout, Glen Lake defeating East Jordan 6-0.

"With so many returning players I was hoping for a better opening game," said East Jordan coach Pete Elliott. "We haven't come together yet as a team and we made many errors. The guys played hard and never quit, so from that aspect we had a good first game."

Glen Lake scored 18 minutes into the game and then added three more goals to jump to a 4-0 lead at the end of the first half.

Dustin Baker scored twice to pace the Glen Lake attack, while Austin Flees, Zach Hawkins, Luke Wichtoski and Nate

Sharpe contributed with one goal each.

Elliott said that his goalkeeper, Jordan Hagen, played a strong game as he made 17 saves and cleared away many other attempts during the team's opener.

Elliott also cited midfielders Josh Force and Tyler Force for their aggressive play.

"We had many good passes, but we just didn't connect enough and we were off on out shots, so we only got a couple on goal. I expect the guys to grow quickly as they get used to each other."

The Red Devils invade Kalkaska tomorrow (Thursday) and host Charlevoix at home Wednesday, Sep. 3.

who finished 13th in a time of 15:38. Teammates Lacey Hofweber and Liz Hofweber followed Brennan, securing 14th and 15th place finishes, respectively. The space between the two was narrow, as Lacey ran 15:55.3, edging out Liz, who crossed at 15:55.5.

Kim Sewell, also of East Jordan, came in at 18:12, finishing 27th and leading teammate Ellie Hague, who ran 19:24 for 29th place.

"With only a couple weeks of practice I thought the kids showed a lot of heart," East Jordan coach Chris Bacon said. "Even after the long delay they stayed focused. I think it was a good opportunity to see where we're at as a team against competition."

Kevin Oblinger of Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart Academy was the boys overall winner with a time of 9:54.5, while teammate Bridget Bennett was the girls overall winner with a time of 12:15.2.

Onaway took the boys team honors with 36 points, followed by Sacred Heart (37), Ellsworth (50), Mancelona (108) and Johannesburg-Lewiston (112).

Boyne Falls had five of six runners medal in the varsity race. Results included Justin Savory (21st, 12:46), Jared Mathers (22nd, 12:50), Travis Lange (23rd, 12:51), Rianne Coale (17th, 16:26), Katie Fraser (21st, 17:11) and Savannah Matelski (30th, 21:08).

"I was thrilled with how they ran," said Boyne Falls coach Dan Kuhn. "Our runners did a great job. Other than the rain, it was a great day."

Eight grader Erica Westbrook (15:29) won the girls junior high race, while Derek Grabowski (22:47) was eighth in the boys race.

Boyne Falls will compete at the first Northern Lakes Conference Jamboree at Mackinaw City on Wednesday, Sep. 3, while East Jordan hosts its invitational the same day.

The Red Devils travel to the Charlevoix Mud Run on Saturday, Sep. 6.

field where the Bellaire Eagles were in the midst of stopping an Onekama run.

Later in the afternoon, East Jordan went against Bellaire, who played well against the Devils, according to Tison.

"They did a pretty good job with (the scrimmage)," Tison said. "They moved the ball well, stopped some people. Bellaire played well."

As for Glen Lake, a team Tison had an opportunity to study Thursday evening as they scrimmaged in Elk Rapids, East Jordan looks to turn heads in the opening game, taking the field this season as the non-underdog 2008 Red Devils.

"They're trapping and we're trapping, so we'll see what happens," Tison said.

DMR WEEKLY FISHING REPORT

Northwest Lower Peninsula

Elk Lake - Lake trout fishing was slow. Smallmouth bass were caught but many were sub-legal. Anglers are targeting the waters between Kewadin and Spencer Bay, south of the Whitewater Park and around the Narrows. Try 15 to 30 feet of water with crawlers, leeches, cooked shrimp, tube baits or rapalas. Musky anglers have been consistent but catch rates were slow. No wall-eye catches to report. Small perch were taken in 18 to 30 feet of water south of the Whitewater Park and outside Spencer Bay. Rock bass are still hitting in 4 to 8 feet of water.

Skegemog Lake - Smallmouth bass fishing remains good. Target the flats between the Torch River and the access site at Baggs Road while casting crawlers, leeches, shrimp, crayfish, minnows, tube baits, jigs or rapalas in 8 to 20 feet of water. Rock bass were hitting near the Torch River and on the north side of the Narrows around the stumps. Anglers are still catching bluegills in 10 to 12 feet of water in front of the access site and the Torch River. A few yellow perch were also caught.

Glen Lake - Perch are the target. The smaller fish can be found in 25 to 30 feet of water and the bigger ones in 40 feet or more. They are using a variety of worms, wigglers, shrimp and minnows. Lake trout are still being picked up off the bottom when using spoons. One steelhead was caught when trolling in 30 feet of water on the west side of the lake near the Yacht Club. Mornings are the best time to fish. For a nice day with the kids, try the shallow waters near the Sleeping Bear Dunes.

There are lots of bluegills in the weeds.

Fisher Lake - Has good fishing as the bluegills are as hungry as ever.

Frankfort - North winds have pushed good numbers of salmon into the harbor and boat anglers are taking limit catches. Pier fishing has been good in the early morning when using glow spoons or plugs.

Manistee - Cold water pushed the salmon in close to shore. Limit catches were reported in the harbor and around the piers when using chrome colored plugs. Pier anglers caught fish on alewife or glow spoons in the early morning.

Hamlin Lake - Anglers fishing the Narrows and Pete's Bayou claimed leeches were the hot bait however those trolling a crawler harness or still-fishing with minnows and crawlers were also getting bites. Large-mouth bass were caught around the Dunes while the smallmouth can be found around the North and Middle Bayou's in 15 feet of water. Bluegill fishing has been good in 8 to 12 feet of water.

Ludington - Some boats are reporting decent catches of chinook salmon in the harbor, and around the piers, and 50 to 100 feet of water between the Bath House and the Point. All are using glow or chrome plugs. Pier anglers used spoons.

Pere Marquette River - Is low and clear which is ideal for trout fishing. Some are fly fishing while others are casting spinners or rapalas. Crawlers also work well.

to connect before the line carried as much hope as a full-court shot before the buzzer in basketball.

"Clink, clink, tonk, tonk, tonk," said the baton to 80,000 spectators inside the Bird's Nest.

Sitting at home, I closed my eyes, shook my head and felt a twinge of sympathy for the untouchable American relay teams. Watching an athlete's prowess and reputation slip from their grasp and go skipping across the track is heartbreaking. Especially if you can relate.

Nearly a decade ago, four Indiana high school sprinters huddled together at the state finals, praying before the start of the 1600-meter relay. Under the lights with thousands watching, the last event of the meet put fans on the edge of their seats and pushed athletes to new levels.

The gun went off and the stadium roared, sending shivers down the legs of relay runners waiting their turn to take the baton. The first runners of the eight fastest teams in the state came bolting down the final straight and into the first exchange.

In the midst of the chaos, my teammates dropped the stick.

The crowd chimed in with the appropriate gasp as seven runners left the exchange zone, leaving behind our second leg to pick up the fallen baton. It has bounced and rolled but never left the lane, so no disqualification was handed out. But the chance to place among the top teams was blown.

We finished, unlike the American men's 400-meter relay team, who didn't bother to complete the final 90 meters of the Olympic race. We finished and felt horrible.

With the suspicion that we were meant for something more than failed attempts, it was difficult to understand such a shortfall. In the moment when perfection was demanded, we proved to be precisely what we were. Human.

As criticism flies following Thursday's baton blunders, settling on Olympic coaches and athletes who should have been above such embarrassing mistakes, it becomes clear that the world is slow to learn from history. Because historically, even when the time for triumph is upon them, heroes are human after all, and the possibility to bonk is always before them.

High school student-athletes should learn from coaches and parents, who have tried and failed, that unexpected mistakes are always possible and even Olympic athletes fall on their faces. We are all human. Even our heroes drop the baton.

Ready to quit smoking?

Free nicotine patches, gum or lozenges available while supplies last

The Michigan Tobacco Quit Line is offering free nicotine patches, gum, or lozenges while supplies last, for people ready to quit smoking or chewing tobacco. The Quitline, 800-QUIT-NOW (1-800-784-8669) is available 24 hours per day, 7 days a week.

The Michigan Quit Line offers tobacco users several free services to help them quit. In addition to free nicotine replacement therapy like patches, gum, and lozenges, callers can schedule one-on-one telephone appointments with a personal health coach, request participant toolkits, or learn where smoking cessation classes are available in their communities.

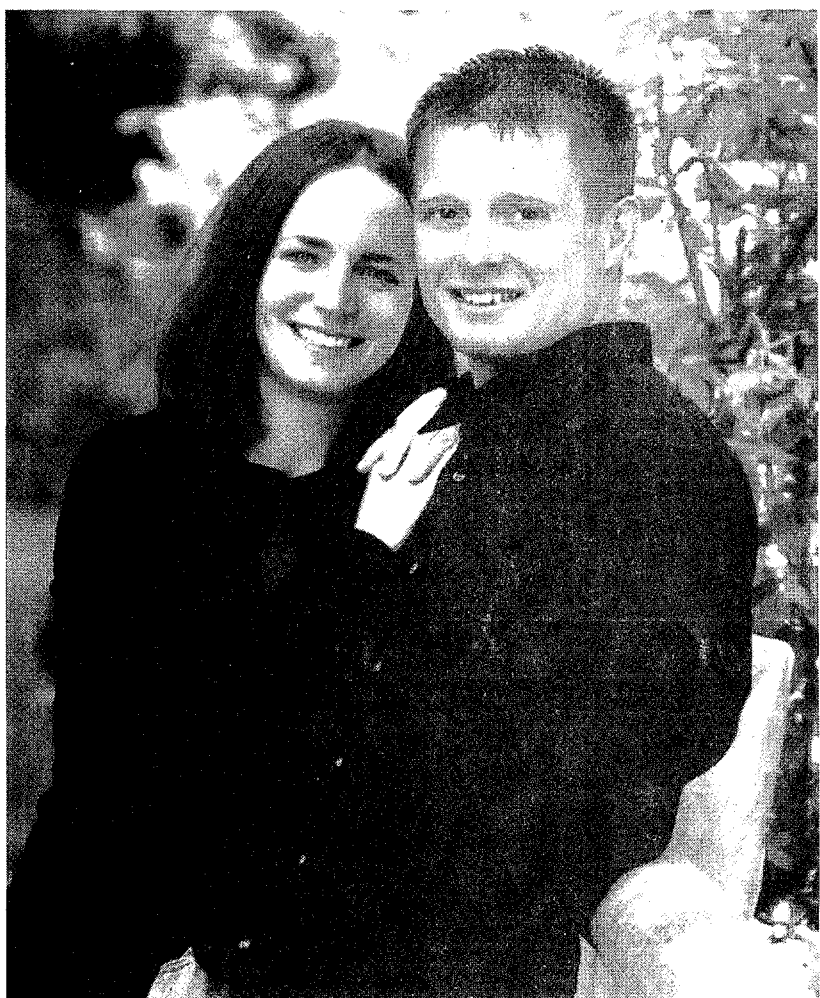

According to Teresa Sington, who coordinates tobacco control activities for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, using nicotine replacement therapy with coaching, like that available at 800-QUIT-NOW can increase the likelihood participants will successfully quit smoking. "Quitting tobacco can be very difficult," she said. "It's important smokers use strategies that are proven to work or they can give up on quitting tobacco when they just really need a few good tools and motivation." Coaching and nicotine replacement therapy are five times as successful as quitting "cold turkey", she said.

As long as supplies last, Quitline callers will receive up to an eight-week supply of nicotine patches, gum or lozenges to tobacco users who are age 18 years old and over and meet basic health requirements. The free program is available to all callers regardless of income or insurance status on a first come, first served basis.

To be eligible, callers must enroll in cessation services with the Michigan Tobacco Quitline at 1-800-QUIT-NOW (1-800-784-8669). When Michigan residents enroll with the Quitline, they will receive a personal coach who will assist them in setting a quit date and making an individualized quit plan. The personal coach also will provide on-going support with up to five telephone coaching sessions around the caller's quit date.

The Michigan Tobacco Quitline has received over 58,000 calls since it was launched in October, 2003. The Quitline offers both English and Spanish-speaking counselors, as well as interpretive services for a wide variety of languages.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties. For more information, call 1-800-QUIT NOW (1-800-784-8669), or visit their website at www.michigan.gov/tobacco.
