Over the Back Fence

By Marshall

A fellow said the other day: "That was a mighty big paper you folks put out last week. Can you keep that up?" And the answer was, "Heck, no." Anybody with a half a brain and no water on the knees at all knows that. But if some bright young executive could change things so there were 36 hours in each day we'd make a stab at it.

Another fellow said: "You folks don't own that paper. The people who are printing it do." As a result of that remark we slapped the fellow's wrist. For Mr. and Mrs. Yours Truly are sole owners, editors, proof readers, window washers, floor sweepers and payers of the income tax to good old Uncle Sam. It looks as though some have forgotten that hidden ownerships went out with portal to portal pay and sixteen cylinder motor cars. Besides, those fellows at the Internal revenue bureau are more active than a baby in a candy store when they get wind of a hidden ownership deal.

Have you taken advantage of the construction library at Thorsen Lumber Company? Al has a large number of pamphlets available for those folks wanting to fix over their home or build. The books are on "how to" and materials available. Better see them before you pick up a hammer.

We fully intended to publish the Greyhound time table for folks getting on the bus at Sinclair's. But we can't. Did you ever try to make out a time table? In order to read up you must read down and the print is as small as a loan shark's contract. However, those wanting to leave town (and we don't know why they should) can call Sinclair's and get courteous help.

We heard via the grapevine the other day that a fellow caught a partridge in a manner other than prescribed by law. The bird flew into the garage and he closed the door.

Mr. Boss, down at Thrift Supermarket is about to launch a "give away" program for customers and you'd better hurry and get next to it or you'll miss out.

We saw a picture in the Press the other day which included members of the northwest industrial council—folks who are working to bring industry into this section of the state. Look as we might we could find no representative from East Jordan. A large number of other neighboring communities have joined the council and East Jordan, as good if not a better location for industry in this section, is on the outside looking in. This is going to happen just as long as we stand around dropping idle words and twiddling our respective thumbs. Maybe we ought to stop thinking it over and do something constructive about it.

The paper was late in getting into the mails last week. There were fourteen thousand and two reasons why. Which all added up to the fact that we didn't meet our own deadline.

If Bill Hinkle isn't careful sporting that bright colored cap he has been wearing, it will be come a local rage. Then Chris Taylor will have to order a bunch of them. Never can tell what a fat will do.

To the many people who stop in to ask about doing printing for them, we must say that, "We aren't in the business." However, there's a man up at 701 North Main street who'd love to talk to you. Names Jenkins.

Have you noticed the "trick" door at Shaw's Super Market? We watched them move a new food cooler through the double door the other day and was surprised to find that the post in between was made removable for that purpose.

And speaking of doors, we stood in awe when we called upon Bill Healey at the Sanitary Super Market. Incidentally, Bill was the first person to purchase an ad from the East Jordan News. Somewhere down the ad list was his brother, Wade, who is kept pretty busy these days dishing.

City-Wide Street Lighting Project Is Under Way In East Jordan

New East Jordan Invention Arouses National Interest

New York representatives of a national hardware distributing house are feverish with interest over an East Jordan invention—a little piece of metal that promises to be a time and money saver in the national construction and plumbing field.

The simple fastener or clamp that holds pipes, wires etc. to walls without use of nails or screws, has been invented with patent pending by William "Bill" Healey, Jr., of the Sanitary Supercette, 101 4th street.

While the fastener was in its earlier stage, Bill contacted the Michigan Bell Telephone Company suggesting that the invention might aid installation men fastening wires to walls and the outside of buildings.

But the telephone company rejected the clamp because its prongs proved a hazard for workmen when carried in their pockets. Improved later, however, it now promises to be a boon to workmen in all fields of construction.

The new fastener needs no nails, no screws and can be carried without scratching or tearing workmen's clothes. The prongs on each end of the clamp are bent backward in an arc and need only to be struck with a hammer to be attached to a wood surface.

Representatives of the New York firm have scheduled as East Jordan meeting October 20th to discuss wholesale production of the new fastener.

Bill hired a Mancelona factory to produce a large number of samples and the coming meeting is the result of his promotion of the invention.

Leslie Gibbard, of East Jordan and Howard Stephens of Charlevoix, were named as new directors to the board.

Re-elected to the body for 3 year terms were: Laurence Supernaw, Jesse Smith, both of Charlevoix; Archie Murphy and Clyde Goodman, of East Jordan; Claude Pearson, of Boyne City and Lawrence Jensen of Ellsworth.

Red Devil quarterback, Keith Evans, No. 88, is a junior with three years of football to his credit. He was a letterman in 1950 and 1951. In the recent Charlevoix-East Jordan game he fired a pass to Weisler who scored for the Red Devils. Evans scored both extra points during the game. He won four letters as a freshman in football, basketball, track and baseball and he received three letters last year. He is the son of Mrs. Thelma Evans of East Jordan.

Drive Opened To Prevent Fires

A drive to reduce farm fire hazards will be one feature of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5 to 11, in an effort to reduce the toll of more than $122,000,000 in property damage and 3,500 deaths resulting from farm fires each year.

Farm leaders point out that a farm building burns somewhere in the United States every 15 minutes and that more than 29 per cent of the deaths from all fires are in rural areas.

Carelessness is the chief cause of farm fires, the Michigan Rural Fire Prevention Committee reports. The committee is made up of Michigan State College, State Department of Agriculture and insurance and utility company representatives.

The committee points out that 90 per cent of the farm fires could have been prevented. About half of the property loss usually is covered by insurance and about half is direct loss to farmers.

The committee suggests this five-point program to help cut down fire losses:

- 1-Don't overload wires. When adding electrical devices such as motors or corn driers, get an expert to check if new circuits are needed.
2-Prohibit smoking in the barn or where flammable liquids are stored.
3-Remember that gasoline can be dangerous if not properly stored.
4-Have proper lightning rods installed on major farm buildings, with wires to ground them, and have them inspected yearly.
5-Make a careful inspection of heating equipment and see that chimneys are in good repair for the winter months.

Standard Oil Honors Bader

An East Jordan Standard Oil Company service station has constantly placed near the top this summer in the firm's cleanliness and appearance contest conducted throughout western Michigan. Harold Bader's Standard Oil station, corner of Main and Garfield streets, won top honors in the contest in July. During other months placed second and third. In July his station was pointed out as being the most clean and best in appearance among 700 Standard service stations from the Indiana border to the Straights of Mackinac.

As part of his award Bader was honored with a reception by Standard officials in the Spanish Room of the Rowe hotel, Grand Rapids. He also was interviewed over radio station WOOD, Grand Rapids. In addition to the reception he was presented a $25 defense bond and a desk pen set. He has been manager of the station since 1939.

School Nurse Attends Regional Health Meeting

Betty Robertson, East Jordan school and community nurse attended the Northern Regional Public Health Conference at Ludington, September 30th to 1st.

Mrs. Robertson heard Dr. P. S. Leeder, of the Michigan Department of Health and Marion Murphy, associate professor of nursing, University of Michigan, discuss public health problems. Other state department of health speakers were also heard.

Meet Your Red Devils

A junior in high school, Steve Hayden, No. 39, is playing his third year of football with the Red Devils. A letterman last year, Hayden played end. This season he has been shifted to defensive guard. He has seen action in all three games. Hayden also plays basketball. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayden of Eveline Township.

Business Section To Get Modern Lights

The City Council Tuesday night signed a $3,150 city-wide street lighting contract with Consumers Power Company.

Don Clark is the contractor for the cement work and began the job of digging to install poles Wednesday morning.

Mayor Leo Sommerville said East Jordan's new street lighting system has long been over due since the old underground wires have been causing trouble. They have been in place for 27 years, Sommerville said.

The project will include new electric lights for the entire city with overhanging bulbs in the residential sections and new steel poles with overhanging arms for the business section. The new lights will have increased wattage and all present fixtures will be replaced with new equipment.

Farm Bureau News

The South Arm Community Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kamradt on September 16th with eighteen members present. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Mrs. T. J. French. She asked Mrs. Walter Fowler to act as secretary in the absence of Mrs. George Nelson.

Reports of committees were given. There was a discussion as to the requirements of regular members and those of associate members. It was voted to receive the action taken at the July meeting to place thirteen members on the associate list.

Editorial

Let no man scoff the farmer, for he has undertaken the most important task known to mankind—production of the food that keeps us alive. Without our commercial farmers our standard of living would greatly decrease. His task he loves and with pride and dignity he carries it out—knowing its importance and often turning a deaf ear to idle words to the contrary.

And turning about, let no farmer underestimate the importance of our local merchants. For they perform services, which if absent would work strife and hazards into your daily lives.

A poor harvest year is as much concern to our local merchants as is a major city improvement to the farmers. Our lives are inter-locked and the burdens and joys of development affect us all.

Thus the continued growth of our community depends much upon the support of the surrounding farmers who take advantage of the services offered by our merchants. Farmers attending East Jordan Schools, churches and civic meetings have a big stake in the development of the community. And the merchants must be ever alert to serve their rural neighbors. In many ways neither can progress without the other.

As a trading center for rural folks in this section of Charlevoix County, East Jordan cannot be paralleled. It is a "hub" city easily accessible to most farmers, who when they arrive to shop are served as efficiently in our stores as anywhere.

There is nothing more welcome in any community than a good farm-city relationship and in those areas where this has been achieved the feeling of friendship and security is greatly increased.

—Marshall Sayles, Editor.

At that time, Elder Grau will present the cinecolor Sabbath school, centennial feature film, "What Hath God Wrought."

The film, recently produced by Donn Henry Thomas, former Detroit editor, is a dramatic portrayal of the origin, development, and history of the denomination's Sabbath school system.

The picture reviews the conception of the Sabbath school idea by James White, when in 1852, by a dusty New England roadside he prepared the first Bible lessons while scribbling on the back of an empty lunch basket. From that humble origin 100 years ago, the idea has steadily grown until today, world-wide Adventist Sabbath school membership has surpassed the million mark.

Elder R. H. Clausen, pastor of the East Jordan Seventh-day Adventist church, will assist Elder Grau in the planning and presentation of the evening's scheduled anniversary activities.

MSC Experts Gives Fall Fashion Tips For County Women

After the youngsters are outfitting for school, milady can turn to thoughts of her own wardrobe. If a coat is on the shopping list, Marjorie Eastman of the Michigan State College clothing department urges you to give careful thought to this major investment.

Follow general fashion trends, but avoid extremes, Miss Eastman advised women who will want to wear a winter coat several seasons. Extreme styles are dated in a short time, she said.

The variety of coat styles this year is so great that you can almost assuredly find one becoming to your figure. There are straight box coats, a revival of tailored chestersfields with velvet collars, fitted coats, sporty polo coats, or the new "tulip" silhouette. The tulip coat, she said, has a low-placed flare rather than fullness that falls from the shoulder line.

Fire Prevention Drive Is Launched

With fire loss in life and property, when measured in dollars, at an all-time high, an aroused nation this month began to organize intensive safety campaigns to be carried out in 10,000 communities during Fire Prevention Week, October 5-11.

Spearheading the movement are municipal officials, fire departments, civic and educational groups, schools, churches, the fire protection and public service organizations of the insurance industry and various other voluntary agencies. All participate, in general, through local fire safety committees, which assume the responsibility of the week-long campaign without duplication or overlapping of individual or group effort.

The activities of these fire safety committees are numerous. Outstanding are those promoted by the local fire departments, schools, civic and trade groups. Here are a few examples:

1. Fire departments in many communities conduct home and building inspections that result in correction of fire hazards.
2. Schools, through their administration and faculty, encourage safety education.
3. Civic and trade groups direct public attention to the need for greater fire safety.

Once a Fire Prevention Week campaign has been successfully carried out, the community's long range program is usually set in motion with the following results:

1. Better building construction, operation and protection.
2. Better fire safety laws and law enforcement.
3. Better fire prevention education.
4. Better fire fighting services.
5. Better research, especially in the means and methods of protecting lives.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, long a leader in Fire Prevention Week activities, already has distributed as its share in the coming campaign millions of fire safety posters, leaflets, educational booklets, inspection blanks and stickers.

ALMOST DIE IN BARRELS.

McAlester, Okla.—In an attempt to escape from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, three convicts sealed themselves in soap barrels which were scheduled for shipment outside the walls. The three stayed in the barrels nearly two hours while a trucker jostled them around the prison grounds. Finally one of them cut a hole in the side of his barrel to get some air. A guard noticed his hair showing and discovered the escape attempt. The other barrels were checked and the other men were found unconscious and nearly suffocated in their barrels.

For dress wear fur trimmed coats are good this year, too.

Fabrics for coats are perhaps the biggest news. Textures were never so varied, she said. Look for curled, looped, grainy, rough, fleecy and smooth woolen fabrics in coats. Tweeds are important fashion wise this season with two-color combinations and kaleidoscope tweeds using many bright colors together. Poodle cloth is with us again this Fall in flatter, less loopy versions.

Miss Eastman urged a woman in search of a new winter coat to consider her present wardrobe. If you wear many suits, a fitted coat will not be so comfortable over suits. If your clothes are generally dressy or tailored, select a coat to blend with them.

METHODIST CHURCH

This is the time of year when Methodists stir themselves to put new life into folks who have leanings towards Methodism, but for some reason have not affiliated themselves with a Church Home.

There are two FORCES behind this Mission of Methodist evangelism. One is the Minister. He is the leader and guide, and a Powerful Influence for good. Indeed, The other even greater force is the closely banded group of people who are the church members. In reality, they are All Lay Leaders. Their inspirational privilege is to strongly encourage all the people of the immediate community who are Methodist minded to join the assembly of Active Church Membership.

We all want to exercise the tremendous Spiritual conquering influence which is far stronger than the army, navy, and airforce combined. We realize that the United Spiritual ENERGY which each of us possesses individually, can make America IRRESISTIBLE in its God Directed task of feeding the bodies, minds, and Souls, of those peoples who cannot see Light in the future.

Remember, we are ALL Leaders, whether we want to be or not. One of our former great Presidents of the United States, once said, "A Leader is a man or woman who sees something that needs doing, and then DOES IT!"

A life-guard at the bathing beach is recognized as a fine leader. But he, like the local Minister, could do nothing if he did not trust other people, and above all, trust the water, which holds his body as he swims to rescue folks. We Lay People have the stability to support the Leadership of our Pastor.

There are several Methodist meetings coming up. Lay people will call upon other brother and sister Lay People. Can you imagine a more wonderful Spiritual Love and FORCE that the Faith and Work which gives us all renewed STRENGTH?

—L. B. KARR.

Rayders Bow To East Jordan In One Of Season's Toughest

Recovering from a slight case of jitters during the first half, the East Jordan Red Devils sprang to life and out-played the challenging Charlevoix Rayders, 14 to 7 on the home field, Wednesday, Oct. 1st.

Both outfits went into the game rather cautious remembering that an upset was not out of the question.

In the first quarter Charlevoix moved into the scoring column via a pass from Bill Bennett, quarterback, to Jack Denemy, left end, who dashed to pay dirt. Charlevoix needed two plays to rack up the extra tally.

Charlevoix hopes were dashed during the second quarter when a scoring play was rejected by officials for offensive holding.

In the middle of the second quarter Red Devil Quarterback Keith Evans fired a 15-yard pass to Jim Weisler, left end, who caught it on the 25 and sprinted across the goal line. Evans ran the extra point.

During the last quarter East Jordan recovered their own kick and followed it with a reverse play with Ray Gee, left half, moving into the win territory to put the Red Devils out front for the first time during the game. Again, Evans ran the extra point.

Coach Gayle Saxton looks to the coming game Saturday with the Boyne City Ramblers as "not a cinch by any means." And the Red Devils, not a team to become over-confident, are gearing themselves for a real battle.

Careful use of plants on window shelves can make a striking treatment for curtainless living. An idea especially good for picture or bay windows is to frame the whole window with a climbing plant. ### Sport News

It was a big day for Coach Gayle Saxton when East Jordan whipped Charlevoix on the local gridiron. Not only was the coach slated over the strong comeback his Red Devils outfit showed in the second half, but he also received another pleasant note.

Saxton was notified that he had received his Masters of Arts degree in education from the University of Michigan.

He began studying for the degree during summers. He studied from 1948 to 1952. His undergraduate work was done at Alma College. After coaching 2 1/2 years at Carson City he came to East Jordan to coach the Red Devils. He is a 1936 graduate of the East Jordan high school.

Don Cutler, of East Jordan made the trip with the Michigan State College team when they traveled to Oregon recently. He is an MSC guard. He saw some action at the closing moments of the MSC-Michigan game at Ann Arbor this year. If you ever get a chance to see the team on TV, Don is No. 90.

Forty Red Devils helped themselves to a big chicken dinner following the Charlevoix-East Jordan game. Mr. and Mrs. L. Chanda, whose son, Larry, is first string center, entertained the players, the coaches and their wives at their farm home. There's no sight like a bunch of hungry football players taking advantage of a good home-cooked farm dinner.

Bob Saxton is now athletic manager of the Alma College Scots football squad. Ellwin Evans is athletic trainer there.

Winter Roof Leaks Costly

Most roof leaks associated with heavy snows and freezing weather are unnecessary and can be prevented in new houses inexpensively, research sponsored by the housing and home finance agency discloses.

Winter roof leaks are usually caused by icy dams which form at the eaves and are subsequently melted on the underside by heat seeping from the house. This, the article points out, causes water to back up under the shingles and drip down on the ceiling below.

Proper placing of insulation, plus eave ventilation, which are relatively simple and inexpensive to install in new houses, would prevent these ice dams from forming. The ease or difficulty of applying the preventative measures in existing houses, will depend upon the individual house.

Cause of Damage

The ice dams form when water from melting snow on the upper portions of the roof runs down until it strikes the cold eave overhang or gutter, where it promptly freezes. When the sheet of ice has progressed a foot or so above the eaves, heat from un-insulated attic space causes melting on the underside of the ice sheet.

The water produced is prevented from escaping to the gutters by unthawed portions of the dam. This water, plus water from the melting snow above, flows back under the shingles.

Since the primary cause is the melting of snow by heat escaping from the attic space, adequate insulation carefully placed on the ceiling below the roof is needed to minimize the heat loss. Care should be taken to see that the insulation laps slightly over the wall plate of the exterior wall and that the insulation is contin-

READIN' WRITIN' and RITHMATIC

FIRST GRADE Mrs. Stokess

Four weeks of school are gone already. The tree outside our window has changed color from green to green, orange and yellow.

We know all our numbers to 10, but we have been practicing making them just right. We learned our ABC's in kindergarten. Now we are learning what they say.

We are learning new words every day. Some of us have read "We Look and See," the first little book for our mothers.

SECOND GRADE Mrs. Seiler

We have a new pupil this week. His name is Jimmy Barnes. He came from Muskegon.

Nurse Betty came in and gave us a talk how to be healthy. Then we went into her office to be weighed.

We have hot lunches this week and we're happy about that. The new kitchen in the lunch room is so pretty. Now the cooks have an easier time serving us.

The girls have a pretty doll to play with in our room. The boys have trucks and cars. All of us like to work on our puzzles.

We have thirteen boys and fourteen girls in Second Grade.

THIRD GRADE Mrs. Bowerman

Betty Healey gave us a report on her trip to Saginaw for the week end. She enjoyed especially the shows on television.

The appearance of our rooms when we returned on Monday showed that our school caretakers had been very busy while the rest of us enjoyed a few days vacation. After studying about the schools of the Pioneers, we appreciate more our own clean, comfortable school.

Richard Annear brought us some very helpful books on Pioneer life and we are enjoying others from our school library. Several children are making good use of our public library too in helping to find interesting stories and information about the Pioneers. Susan Jeffrey was amused to learn that her birthday was the same date as Daniel Boone.

Have you ever seen broom corn? Eddie Thompson looked like a walking corn shuck when he came into the room Monday morning. We would like to put his "shock" on exhibit in a downtown store so you can see what brooms are made of. This corn is carryover of the Indian project we carried out in our room last year.

FOURTH GRADE Mrs. Galmore

Our boys and girls were all happy to have hot lunches start on Monday of this week. It is so pleasant in the lunch room now with the new kitchen and the new tables.

On our leaf chart we have many different kinds of leaves and some seeds. We are trying to learn to identify all Michigan trees that are important to know. We will take a field trip as soon as we have our chart filled.

Our Spelling Workbooks are here. We believe now that we can learn more about our words.

FIFTH GRADE Mrs. Liskum

We have studied two poems; "September," by Helen Hunt Jackson, and "Western Wagons" by Rosemary and Stephan Vincent Benet. We drew picture to illustrate "September."

We have had Stanford Achievement Tests to learn what we need to work at the hardest. We are all trying to improve our reading. This week we are emphasizing silent reading with no pointing and no lips moving. Bad habits are hard to break.

We are happy that our spelling workbooks are here.

Our many, many new library books make us happy. Every week we visit the school library and choose a book to keep for a week. Some of us trade books when finish reading them, and in that way we can read several each week. Mrs. Liskum also chooses several extra books to keep in the room. All this pleasant reading will help us to become better readers.

Next Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock our Mothers and Fathers are coming to a meeting in our room. Sometimes the Mothers visit a room in the afternoon to learn what is especially interesting to their children. We are having our meeting in the evening so the Fathers can come, too.

Four County Men Named For Draft Physical Oct. 27

Four Charlevoix county draft registrants have been called for pre-induction physical examinations Oct. 27, the local draft board has announced.

They are Jack W. Mort, Thomas E. Donaldson and Joseph A. Buchfinch of Charlevoix and Charlie D. Thayer of Boyne City. The names of the five men who will be called for induction into the armed services in November are not known at this time. The date will be announced later.

A copy of the East Jordan News is available at the News office in back of the bank building.

Three County Chest X-Ray Survey Will Start October 28

A three county chest x-ray survey will be launched October 28 when a Michigan Department of Health X-ray unit begins a tour of Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties, according to an announcement made this week.

With a goal of giving free chest X-rays to all adults, including students 15 years of age and older, Dr. A. F. Litzemberger, district health department director, said the check-up campaign will last in the three-county area through November 25.

In a planning meeting at Charlevoix on September 25, members of the area health unit staff met with a Michigan Tuberculosis Association representative to lay plans for making maximum use of the Michigan Department of Health X-ray bus.

Dr. Litzemberger expressed hope that a large number of older adults will take advantage of the X-ray opportunity. Pointing out that tuberculosis is spread from the sick to the healthy, the health unit director said more an dmore tuberculosis is now centered in older age groups, particularly men over 40.

"While everyone 15 years of age and older should have an annual chest X-ray for protection from unsuspected tuberculosis, parents and grandparents are urged to be X-rayed every year to protect children as well as themselves from the unknown spread of TB germs," Dr. Litzemberger declared.

He added that the X-ray process will require no disrobing and will take only a few minutes. Reports on possible abnormal conditions will be confidential to the individual and his family physician.

Better Eggs Are Easy

Farmers can market a much larger proportion of clean eggs of Grade A quality by following seven recommended practices, a study made by the United States Department of Agriculture and 13 Midwestern State Experiment Stations.

Ninety per cent of the eggs marketed by producers who followed the seven practices were Grade A, and only four per cent were stained and dirty, it was found in the study, whereas only 55 percent of the eggs marketed by those who followed none of the practices were Grade A and 24 per cent were stained and dirty, the USDA reported.

The study was a phase of regional research done jointly by the State Agricultural Experiment Stations and the Production and Marketing Administration, with the co-operation of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Farm Credit Administration. Findings are based on information obtained from producers in nine of the major egg-producing States.

The seven recommended practices are: (1) confine the laying flock; (2) keep the floor litter clean and dry; (3) keep the nesting material clean and dry; (4) gather the eggs at least twice a day; (5) gather eggs in wire baskets that permit rapid cooling; (6) cool the eggs and keep them cool, and (7) keep the humidity high in the egg storage room.

Some of these practices have been recognized by poultrymen for years as aids to efficient egg production. The resulting rise in quality of eggs, however, had not previously been studied on such a broad scale.

One of the major problems of the egg industry has been the maintenance of high quality in eggs throughout the marketing channel. A prior study by the same State and Federal agencies indicated that about one third of the eggs marketed in the North-Central Region were below Grade A at the time the farmers sold them.

This finding led to the study on producer practices to lead to marketing higher quality eggs.

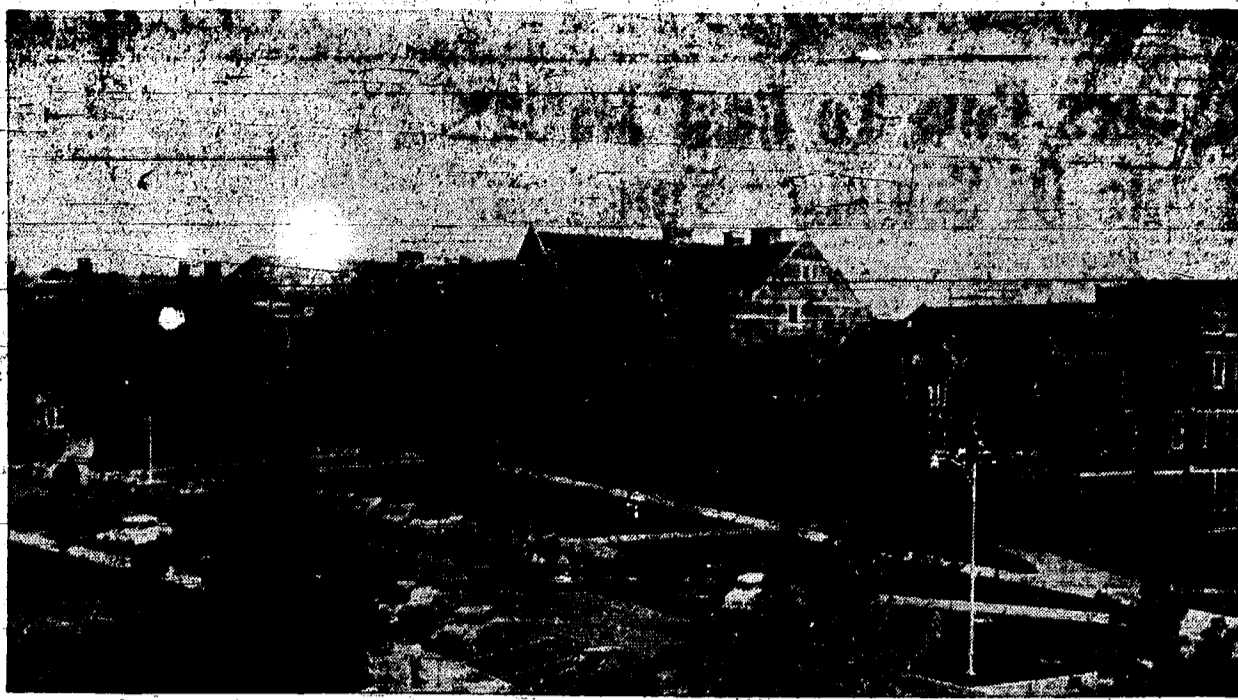

With a higher level of quality, consumers should be better satisfied, fewer eggs would be forced into lower-priced outlets and fewer would be lost by spoilage in marketing channels, the specialists say. This should result in higher returns to producers and a lower spread between farm and consumer prices.

Mrs. Davis Is Re-Elected As Polio Chairman

Mrs. Walter Davis of East Jordan, was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at the annual meeting of the organization at the K. P. hall in Charlevoix, Sept. 30.

Mrs. Thomas Carey of Charlevoix was named vice chairman; Henry Lee of Boyne City, secretary, and Gregory Boswell of East Jordan, treasurer.

Jon Dahli of Marquette, a representative of the National Foundation, attended the meeting and presented a check for $1,700 to Mrs. Davis. Earlier in the year Charlevoix county received a grant of $2,750. The check presented Tuesday brought to $4,450 the amount the county has received from the National Foundation to aid in the payment of medical expenses and hospital bills for county patients who are hospitalized at various institutions. The total expenditures for these expenses from January 1 until Sept. 30 was $4,940.18.

The report also showed that on Dec. 31, 1951, the chapter had $489.82 on hand. After realizing $2,493.44 as its portion of the 1952 drive and receiving $2,750 from the National Foundation, the chapter now has on hand, after paying expenses of $4,940.18 and chapter expenses of $45.00, a total of $748.08.

Charlevoix county now has 15 cases which are receiving care. The reports also revealed that Charlevoix county ranked in tenth place in the state drive with only 37 cents per capita. Otsego county was first with 80 cents per capita. In 1947 Charlevoix county rated second in the state.

Swede Hoe

Not all seedlings going into state forests this fall are being planted by mechanical tree planters. Where vegetation is too thick, terrain rocky, or in isolated spots, it is more economical to prepare soil and plant by hand. Here in Higgins Lake forest, conservation department tree planter Claude Johnson works with a "Swede hoe" to remove bracken which would compete with seedling for light, moisture and soil nutrients. "Michigan planting bar" (left foreground next to gull of red pine seedlings) then is shoved in cleared space to create V-shaped hole for seedling insertion. Bar is removed and pushed into earth closely behind seedling to close gap and firmly secure tree in place. Some 16,000,000 department nursery trees now are being planted in private reforestation projects and state forests.

Study of Log Markings Recalls Romantic Lumber Era in Michigan for Wayne U. Coeds

Twins Erina and Galina Smyrnoff of Chelsea, Wayne University seniors, try to operate a woodsman's saw. The border of log markings by counties is an indication of the variety of types of markings used during Michigan's great pine harvest.

The lumbering era in Michigan was one of the grandest and most colorful this State has known. The early history of Michigan is in fact, the development, growth, and decline of the lumber industry.

Dr. Berl Hudgins, head of the geography department at Wayne University in Detroit, points out in his study Michigan—Geographic Backgrounds in the Development of the Commonwealth: "It is true the lumbering era was spectacular and romantic, but there was loss of life and property in fires and the logging and river driving often took tolls in lives of men."

One phase of this glorious era was the marking of logs to facilitate the identification of ownership by the numerous boom companies that sprang up during the great harvest years. These companies ran logs down the river, sorted, rafted and sent them to the sawmills immediately to make way for more and more logs.

The early log marks were merely hacks cut into the bark with an ax—simple straight-line symbols. However, in the 1840's when logging increased to a grand scale, the necessity for more and different types of markings arose.

Michigan's many tributaries, rivers, and falls carried a tremendous load of the great pine harvest. North of Saginaw Bay, the Rife, Au Gres, Au Sable, and Thunder Bay rivers each had separate boom companies to handle the river loads.

With this great increase of logs, markings became so complex and varied that it was reported that one boom company had a standing offer of $50 to anyone who could design a mark of three letters in any arrangement that had never been used before.

Many humorous markings came out of this era, such as "Dumbbell", "Chicken on a Fence", "Bed Bug", "Snuff Box", "Pair of Legs", "Pig's Head". The Tobacco River Lumber Company of Saginaw County appropriately enough selected the marks "Tobacco", "Smoke", "Cigar", "Plug", and "Snuff" to identify their logs.

Short Course Scholarships Open At MSC

Some scholarships for the fall term of Agricultural Short Courses at Michigan State College will not be awarded until Friday, October 17, officials have announced. Young farmers interested in applying, or persons knowing of eligible youths, should contact a high school teacher of home economics or agriculture, a county agricultural agent, a local banker or Short Courses Department MSC, East Lansing.

The fall term will open October 27 with registrations, with the present ranks of 92 advance enrollees expected to be swelled before then. Both leadership and practical agricultural skills are taught. The tuition, room, board, and books for an eight-week course period average about $140.

The complete agriculture course for men includes livestock, dairying, crops, farm management, poultry, soils, horticulture, farm mechanics (plant diseases, bacteriology, farm insects and other subjects). Elective subjects include rural leadership, family relations, parliamentary procedure and public speaking. Some courses are co-educational and there is a home economics course for women.

Young men will live in the Short Course Dormitory and eat at the Short Courses Cafeteria. Campus quarters also will be provided for women students. The associations and experience will help them to greater successes in farming and in rural leadership.

Barnard Grange To Initiate Class Of 15 At Special Meet

A class of 15 candidates will be instructed in the third and fourth degrees of the Grange ritual at a special meeting Thursday evening at the Barnard Grange.

This is the largest class that has been initiated into the Barnard Grange in the past year, according to Al Smith, master. The ritualistic work will be presented by members of the Grass Lake Grange.

Early Harvest Cuts Corn Loss

"If you want to avoid field losses from broken stalks, dropped ears, disease, birds and animals, corn should be picked as soon as the moisture content is low enough so it can be stored safely," E. C. Rossmann, Michigan State College specialist, advises farmers. He adds that loss of corn in the field increases sharply as harvest is delayed. Weather is more likely to be favorable for corn harvest during the latter part of October and in November than later in the season.

Unless artificial drying equipment is used, corn should not be cribbed until it is down to at least 25 to 27 per cent moisture. When corn is cut and shocked before husking, it should not be cut until after the grain has dried to 35 per cent moisture, Rossmann says.

County Cattle To Have Bangs Disease Retest

Charlevoix county dairy farmers will soon experience another retest in the program for the control and eradication of bangs disease, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, announced today. This program is joint between the Federal, State and County Governments. Charlevoix county, in the past has been an accredited county and only by retesting can the dairy farmers hope to control bangs disease.

Rebman states that the forthcoming county-wide retest program will be altered somewhat to include the use of the milk ring or ABR test. This ABR test is conducted only on composite herd samples of milk or cream and is used to locate probable infected herds.

Herds demonstrating any reaction to this ABR test will be blood tested as in the past. The procedure following the blood test will also be the same as in previous tests. Farmers are urged by county agent Rebman to assist the department in making the retests in order that this dreaded disease may be controlled and possibly eradicated.

County Agent Notes

Mr. Farmer, would you like to take the gamble out of getting a good seedling of clover or alfalfa next spring? Well, who wouldn't! Then collect soil samples from the fields you will be seeding next spring before the freeze-up or snow comes this fall. This will make it possible to have the samples tested in your local soil testing laboratory during the fall and winter months, advises Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

It is estimated that fully a third of the legume seedlings made in Michigan each year result in failure. Many other seedlings are "spotty" and fail to produce satisfactorily. Think of the losses involved—not only in the cost of the seed used but also in the hay or pasture which might have been grown, Rebman reminds.

Most seeding failures as well as poor production are the result of acid or low-lime soils and lack of abundant quantities of plant food according to E. D. Longnecker, Michigan State College extension specialist in soil science. Only by soil testing can one learn positively whether lime and extra plant food are needed. So test, don't guess, he stresses.

Generally one or two samples per field is enough—one sample from each major soil area. Samples should represent the entire plow layer—not be scraped from the surface. Each final sample should be a composite of a half dozen or more samples taken from scattered locations in one general soil area, the county agent suggests.

Clean tools should be used in collecting soil samples. Likewise the samples should be placed in clean paper sacks, cans or boxes for shipment, he adds.

Each sample should be labeled so that it can be properly identified later and taken to the county agricultural agent for testing, he invites.

The proper use of seed cleaning equipment for elevators and farms will be a special feature of this year seed section of the Northern Michigan Potato, Apple and Seed Show, says Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

A large commercial manufacturer of seed cleaning equipment has agreed to set up elevator size equipment and farm size equipment at the show. Throughout each day at the show, periodic demonstrations of the use of the equipment will be made. It is a known fact that equipment now in the area is capable of doing a much better job of cleaning, if properly used. There are so many little adjustments with such Farmers choosing between red and white winter wheat should check their elevator to avoid mixtures in one community.

Michigan apples cost only about three-fourths as much for edible tissue as do those from the Pacific Northwest.

U. S. School Survey To Be Held Here

New national figures on school enrollment will be available from information obtained in the October Current Population Survey, according to District Supervisor Mr. Donald P. Watkins of the U. S. Census Bureau. Supervisor Watkins pointed out that the Current Population Survey would be conducted in East Jordan and in 67 other areas through the country during the week of October 13. Last year's survey showed that 30,500,000 persons 5 to 29 years old were enrolled in school or college at the beginning of the 1951-1952 school year, Supervisor Watkins said. The corresponding number enrolled in October 1950 was 30,100,000. The high enrollment was due primarily to the presence in the elementary grades of a large number of children born shortly before and during World War II. In October 1951, the number of children 7 to 13 years old attending school was nearly 18 million, an increase of about 725,000 over the previous year, and 3,200,000 more than the comparable number in October 1945. Supervisor Watkins stated that the questions of school enrollment will be asked in addition to the usual monthly questions on employment and unemployment.

FARM GOSSIP COLUMN

(Compiled and Edited by the News Staff)

First on the docket is a hearty "thank you" to all those folks who called in from their farms to tell us how much they like the East Jordan News. We enjoyed talking to each and every one of them and hope to be able to meet them personally as time goes on. This column is open to farm folks for news of their meetings and to publish interesting odds and ends about farm life.

Have you by chance had the opportunity to see the pamphlet published by the East Jordan Canning Company? It's called "Jordan ABC Recipes" and is sent to customers who see the note on the label of the can and write in for it. The pamphlet we have on hand is a beautiful 8-color job on excellent paper with a picture of a cluster of cherries on the front cover. The canning company's literature carries the U. S. Fancy Grade A shield, showing official certification by the U. S. department of agriculture. It's the company's guarantee of dependable quality.

We see where the national farmers union has received a $27,800 check from the Utah farm bureau paying off a libel judgement won in a Salt Lake City federal court. The farmers union had sued over a charge that it was "communist-dominated."

Ted Stebbins, secretary of the Michigan Cherry Producers association presented a report on the state group at a meeting of Antrim County Cherry Producers Monday night at Bellaire. Growers heard reports of both district and state directors meetings.

Now that National Fire prevention week is about over, it doesn't mean that farm folks can relax their caution against farm fires. Fire can strike any moment on any farm and any farmer who has had a costly fire knows the value of good fire prevention habits.

Here's a tip to those farmers having grandmothers living nearby. Next Sunday is National Grandmother's Day. A surprise visit on that day will be long remembered.

And speaking of "Days," the last day of October is National Apple Day. Other dates to remember this month are: 14-21, National Save the Horse Week; Oct. 18-26, National Donut Week; Oct. 23-Nov. 1, National Apple Week; Oct. 26-Nov. 2, National Honey Week.

Charlevoix, Antrim and Osego county farmers are finishing their potato digging. Several farms around Elmira have finished and reports are excellent yields with a good grade of spuds this year. Over near Horton Bay, the Howard Skornia farm finished digging 5-acres that ran 200 bushels per acre last week. The majority of the spuds graded number one.

There will be some mighty good buys at the farm auction to be held at the Ludwig Larson farm on M-66 Saturday afternoon.

Other farm auctions may be listed in this column if the auctioneers will drop in or call and give us the dates.

F. F. A. Holds Initiation

Big Festival Set Earlier By Turkeymen

The sixth annual Michigan Turkey Festival will be a real "early bird" affair.

Scheduled before Thanksgiving for the first time since its inception in Alma in 1947, the event will be November 4 through 6 at Civic Auditorium in Grand Rapids. Entries are expected to top the 1951 record of nearly 400 live and dressed turkeys.

The festival, concluding with a banquet at the Pantlind Hotel, is co-operative project of the Michigan Growers' Association, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Michigan State College.

Highlights the first day will include a panel discussion by veterinarians who are turkey specialists on "Turkey Health". Dr. Ralph C. Belding, MSC poultry pathologist, will lead it. A marketing panel the second day will be led by James A. Davidson, MSC poultry husbandman. On November 6, a program for consumers and producers will include demonstrations of selecting, cooking and cutting up turkeys. Miss Mary M. Bodwell, MSC consumer education specialist, and Charles Hawks of the Poultry and Egg National Board will conduct the demonstrations.

Dr. W. A. Billings, University of Minnesota extension poultryman, will lead a panel discussion on "Turkey Management" November 5 at 8 p.m. and will be a toastmaster at the closing dinner.

Entries, to be received from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. November 4, will be judged by Prof. E. Y. Smith of Cornell University and Dr. Lawrence E. Dawson, MSC poultry husbandman. Entries will be in 39 classes.

Test Soil Samples To Assure Results In Spring Seeding

Mr. Farmer, would you like to take the gamble out of getting a good seeding of clover or alfalfa next spring? Well, who wouldn't! Then collect soil samples from the fields you will be seeding next spring before the freeze-up or snow comes this fall. This will make it possible to have the samples tested in your local soil testing laboratory during the fall and winter months, advises Ed Reberman, county agricultural agent.

It is estimated that fully a third of the legume seedings made in Michigan each year result in failure. Many other seedings are "spotty" and fail to produce satisfactorily. Think of the losses involved — not only in the cost of the seed used but also in the value of the hay or pasture which might have been grown, Reberman reminds.

Most seeding failures as well as poor production are the results of acid or low-lime soils and lack of abundant quantities of plant food according to E. D. Longnecker, Michigan State College extension specialist in soil science. Only by soil testing can one learn positively whether lime and extra plant food are needed. So test, don't guess, he stresses.

Generally one or two samples per field is enough — one sample from each major soil area. Samples should represent the entire plow layer . . . not be scraped from the surface. Each final sample should be a composite of a half dozen or more samples taken from scattered locations in one general soil area, the county agent suggests.

Clean tools should be used in collecting soil samples. Likewise, the samples should be placed in clean paper sacks, cans or boxes for shipment, he adds.

Each sample should be labeled so that it can be properly identified later and taken to the county agricultural agent for testing, he invites.

Avoid Loss From Shipping Fever, MSC Advises

A few precautions can save Michigan farmers from serious losses from shipping fever in cattle, according to Dr. Glen Reed, extension veterinarian at Michigan State College.

Shipping fever not only affects the cattle Michigan farmers purchase but frequently infects cattle already on the farm. Terrific losses by death and loss of weight result every fall, Dr. Reed says.

The main factor to remember, he says, is that the shipping fever symptoms occur when cattle are subjected to conditions that lower their resistance to any infection.

He suggests buying cattle direct if at all possible, and moving the cattle directly to your farm from the area where they were raised. Move them when the weather is favorable. If the trip is long, stop every 28 hours, rest eight hours, and feed and water the cattle during the rest period. Avoid overcrowding in railroad cars. Don't "fill" the cattle prior to shipment. Look out for cattle that have "traveled," Dr. Reed warns. If they have passed through several public yards they are likely to have been exposed to the organisms that produce shipping fever, either from the yards themselves or by mingling with infected cattle.

Vaccination before shipment will help, but Dr. Reed warns that it is not a substitute for good management and handling during shipment.

Whenever strange cattle arrive on your farm they are tired, nervous and may be sick. If the weather is favorable turn them on bluegrass where they won't fill too rapidly. Let them rest. Keep in mind that cattle can be hastened toward death by over-exertion and handling in attempts to treat them.

Common symptoms of shipping fever are running nose and eyes, coughing, off feed, diarrhea and high temperature. Since other diseases and parasitic infestation can cause the same symptoms, a veterinarian's diagnosis is important, Dr. Reed says. Isolate or remove the sick animals from the herd if at all possible, he urges.

Added Nitrogen Gives Less Help In Hot Summer

If nitrogen side-dressing of corn, beans or sugar beets or top-dressing of small grains didn't pay off in extra yields in Michigan this past summer, do not reach the conclusion it never pays. Dr. Ray Cook, Michigan State College soil scientist, explains it this way.

In a summer of hot weather, extra nitrogen application does not "pay-off" as effectively as it would in a normal or cool summer. When the soil is cool the small organisms do not work to break down the organic matter very fast. That means less nitrogen is liberated to help the crop. So the nitrogen you add gives yields quite a boost.

When the summer is hot the organisms work faster and let off much nitrogen which the plant can absorb. As a result, the extra nitrogen you apply is not as effectively used.

In 1952 experiments at the Perden Farm near Chesaning, side-dressing of corn made extra bushels cost only 18.6 cents each when 40 pounds of nitrogen an acre were added. Sugar beets were produced at a cost of $2.14 a ton with the same amount. Extra beans made possible by 40 pounds of nitrogen cost only $2.33 a bushel.

For the same year, 40 pounds of top-dressed nitrogen produced extra bushels of wheat at 22 cents a bushel, barley at 19 cents a bushel and oats at 23 cents a bushel.

But the soil scientist is not expecting good returns from nitrogen applied to crops this year.
