VOLUME 1 NUMBER 10

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1952

(SUBSCRIPTION RATE: $2.50 PER YEAR)

Over the Back Fence

By Marshall

We put the bee on Charles Carson of Detroit, for an additional dollar for his subscription. Carson sent along $2.50 for a year's reading, unaware of the fact that the E. J. News out-of-area price is $3.50 per 12 months. Charles shook his finger at us in a letter and reported that the extra dollar he was sending was his last. We're not sure whether he meant the dollar was the last he was sending us or the last in that barrel out in the back room.

Any way he went on to say that Emily Post didn't approve of us doing such a thing to him—especially just before Christmas. He even brought the union into the deal figuring methods of recovering the buck from one Mr. Reuther. But apparently the work chief shied away from such borrowings. Besides, Reuther has his hands full since the country's top union position has been left vacant. Recently he has been trying to be president of everything (in the work line) and apparently has no time to worry about Charles Carson, the East Jordan News, etc.

We spoke of all this to Brother Kit, big lumber and knot hole man over Charlevoix way, and he told us a yarn about Charles that some day we may work into a story for this space.

Someone the other day said they could not get enough large minnows for fishing so we sent our agents out and came up with the fact that Bennett Live Bait, 303 Mill street, has them. We have everything here in East Jordan. All you have to do shop around a bit.

Speaking of shopping around a bit. Did you know that our stores right here at home are under selling others in surrounding cities on certain items? Now that Christmas buying has started you can save plenty by having a good look here at home. There are more Christmas gifts offered in local stores than ever. It costs nothing to have a good healthy look.

Fellow said the other day that we have nine months of winter here and three months of poor sleighing. That may have been true 50 years ago when it used to get so cold you had to dodge nails flying out of siding on the house. But since the government has gone to fooling around with atom bombs it seems the weather here is different. Of course it is easy to lay our weather change to that. But it does seem that our winters are milder than when grandpa was slapping the reins against old Bess.

Anyway, if this winter is really severe we'll blame it upon the republicans. For the gradual increase in better weather here over the years came during democratic reign. Maybe that's what they meant when they said, "Don't let 'em take it away."

We'll bet, however, there isn't any snow in Washington. Not with the republicans making things hot there for the last month or so.

You buy a lot of stamps in the publishing business. And we have come up with the discovery that plenty of them do not have enough glue on the glue side.

Herbert Hoover was called to Washington some time ago to check and see how the government could save money. His committee was called the "Hoover Investigation" or something like that. Anyway, he told the folks handling our money how they could get along for less. We're thinking of writing him and asking about this glue on the stamp business. If he told the postal department to lighten up on the glue, we're 'agin him. The three centers seem to stick okay, but it's those two cent deals that give you the backache.

But Hoover is a very intelligent fellow. He knew that anything with a two cent stamp on it wasn't going very far—so, less glue. That's how we figure he figured.

Now that a Michigan automobile salesman has been appointed postmaster general, it is just possible he might do something about the glue on two cent stamps. We're keeping an eye on that fellow, anyway.

FEWER DEATHS AT THE WHEEL

High School Driver Training Is Saving Our Children

Fewer auto accidents and better drivers—that's the goal behind the East Jordan high school's driver training program.

And the school can point with pride to the success of the classes, which now are in their 6th year.

Nationally, driver training has reduced auto accidents by two thirds, experts say; and here at home there have been less accidents and 200 better drivers—thanks to the school's program.

Eventual result of the national driver training program could easily be auto insurance reductions. That's according to John Richardson, East Jordan's driver training instructor for the last three years.

Richardson points out that insurance costs are lower in areas where accidents are fewer or where the auto accident potential is lower. Here at home, he says, a very small percentage of drivers involved in accidents have had driver training.

Not only students but adults also have been given opportunity to engage in the program. Richardson reports the adult driver training class has been in effect for two years. Four women have paid the school $3.00 for the current 10 week course, with classes from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. each Monday.

Richardson believes boys or men often make better drivers than girls and women for one reason. Male members of the family drive more. If women would use the automobile more often, he believes, their reaction and sense of distance judging would improve. However, he is ready to admit there are many excellent women drivers.

Although the automobile used is especially equipped, the 20 students taking the course are pretty much on their own while driving.

SINCLAIR FURNISHES AUTO
The automobile, loaned to the school by Sinclair Sales is equipped with an extra clutch and brake pedal. But the instructor has no means of steering in emergencies. The training area, however, is not dangerous. The students drive around the city, on side roads, M-66 and sometimes they cross the ferry at Ironton. Richardson is also teaching the art of parking in tight spots and proper methods of backing out of a garage.

Each student drives about 45 minutes each week in 3-period sessions. Since the class is limited to 20 students per semester, seniors are given preference. They must be 16 years old after the course is finished.

Cake For Their 70th Year

A 70th wedding anniversary cake presented by Ilene Brennan was the center of attraction recently when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freese celebrated the event at Grandvue Hospital. Mayor Sommerville To Get First Telephone Message

"What hath God wrought?" were supposed to have been the first words spoken over a telephone. But it is unlikely that Mayor Leo Sommerville will be as excited as Alexander Graham Bell when he receives the first call today over Charlevoix's new dial telephone system.

When the news went to press, Michigan Bell Telephone Company was running last minute tests on the dial equipment, with the first call planned by Mayor John Knight to Mayor Sommerville here in East Jordan.

Mayor Sommerville is an old hand at being the first to make things work. Last week he threw the switch which turned on the city's new street lighting system. Constructed at a cost of $340,000, the new dial system in Charlevoix was to be inaugurated at a brief luncheon ceremony, attended by business and civic leaders and Michigan Bell officials.

JOHNSON TO TALK
C. L. Johnson, manager here for Michigan Bell, was to act as master of ceremonies at the inaugural ceremony.

Johnson cautioned all subscribers who call Charlevoix numbers to be sure to check their new directories before placing a call. New numbers, bearing the office, Liberty—followed by five numerals—have been assigned Charlevoix customers. Johnson said, in calling Charlevoix numbers, he said it will be necessary for Boyne City, East Jordan, and Petoskey customers to dial the complete telephone number—including the first two letters of the office name.

To reach Charlevoix numbers not listed in the book, E. Jordan customers should dial "0" to reach the information operator, the manager said.

The total includes about 96 master's degree candidates and 40 candidates for doctor's degrees. Commencement ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium with Dr. John S. Everton, president of Kalamazoo College delivering the commencement address.

Dr. Everton received his Ph. D. degree from Yale University and has been president of Kalamazoo College since 1940.

THANKSGIVING GUESTS

EAST JORDAN CHRISTMAS BUYING NOW UNDERWAY
Big plans for "Christmas-time in Rainbowland" were being made this week by the city council and retail merchants.

The council is laying plans for trimming the downtown section in holiday color and merchants are displaying thousands of gift items for the young and old.

Two merchants, Sherman's Firestore Store and the Dress & Gift Shoppe have announced pre-Christmas sales, while many others have announced numerous gift bargains.

With Christmas buying already underway, the merchant's buy-at-home program is in full swing and reports indicate encouraging results from the project.

Mable Secord Recognized As Local Historian

East Jordan's unofficial historian, Mrs. Mable Secord, received wide recognition last week when the story of her life appeared in feature story form in the Grand Rapids Press.

Well known throughout this section of Michigan as a historian and long a newspaper correspondent, Mrs. Secord has collected a vast amount of historical material concerning East Jordan and the surrounding area.

Her collection of dates and her fund of information about days gone by have often helped residents here who were in vital need of the material she has on hand.

An important part of East Jordan's social and civic development and as well as the city's publicity in years past, were contributed to the community by Mrs. Secord's tireless efforts.

Youth Wounded In Sunday Hunting Accident

North country hunting accidents this season included the leg wound received by Tom Fessenden, 15, of 215 Clinton, Charlevoix, when he was struck by a bullet fired by T. D. Malpass, jr., who had been stalking a deer near the Jordan River headwaters Sunday.

Fessenden was removed from the woods by hunters and transported to the Charlevoix hospital where his condition was reported as fair.

In another hunting accident a Detroit man was shot while standing on a road near Springvale. Transported to Little Traverse hospital, Petoskey, his condition was reported serious at press time.

Downing pointed out that when official practice starts, the cast will go on stage to learn stage stressing, timing, cues, voice control, directions, etc.

Editorial

Newly elected Republican leadership of the United States will soon take office, charged with a grave responsibility, which it asked for, and which will not be easy to discharge. This leadership, when seeking office, promised relief from certain ills that have grown worse in recent years. Now it is up to the Republicans to produce or face the same criticism directed at their opponents during the past few years of mounting taxation, undeclared war so costly in American lives, and governmental extravagance.

We look upon the startling results of the voting as a protest against taxes which have been constantly increasing since 1932.

Change to a Republican administration is the American people's peaceful way of staging a revolution against a revenue hungry ruling group that was attempting only to find ways of wringing more money from the taxpayers instead of originating economies to balance the budget.

It is a protest against the so-far futile struggle in Korea in which the American people can see no benefit. It is a protest against extravagant spending, against an ever increasing army of public employees, against bureaucratic interference with business both large and small and against discrimination against the unorganized salaried workers in favor of the organized wage earner.

It is to be hoped that this trust the American people have placed in the Republican party will not have been misplaced and that taxes will be lowered, inflation checked, some effort made to reduce the national debt, peace restored abroad with a consistent and firm international diplomatic policy and fair play be assured at home in the never-ending differences between labor and management.

It has been 20 years since the Republicans left the White House and bowed out of a commanding position in national affairs after having made a somewhat sorry mess of things after World War I.

Let us hope that leadership in the party today will justify the trust given it and that four years from now we can point to progress.

We must understand, however, that the ills which have been built up over many years cannot all be corrected in two or even four. It will take time but Americans will be tolerant and understanding if they see an effort is being made in the right direction. (from The Otsego County Herald Times, Gaylord.)

Lakes Shipping Cuts Ore Deficit From Steel Strike

Lansing — Though the two-month long steel strike this summer threatened to wreck American production for 1952, record iron ore shipments since the strike already have cut expected shortages by more than one-third, the conservation department reports.

The strike's impact on the U. S. and Canadian economies probably will be felt for years, but ore shipments through the Great Lakes have been rolling along full tilt since the strike ended July 25.

In August, the fleet of nearly 300 ore boats hauled about 14.3 million tons, a million more than in August, 1951. In September, the fleet set an all time record for that month, hauling a whopping 14.4 million tons, more by nearly two million tons than the previous September. Part of this increase was carried by new ore boats, added to the fleet since 1951.

The Great Lakes area produces about 97 million tons of ore each year from the big mining district around the western end of Lake Superior. When the strike ended this year, ore production was 22 million tons behind 1951. That deficit since been cut to about 15 million, and may be hocked to 13 million before the shipping season ends in December.

About 75 million tons have been shipped thus far this year, at this date last year, 90 million tons had been shipped.

Weather can play an important part in cutting the ore deficit still further. Generally the shipping season runs from mid-April to early or mid-December; but mild weather this fall may allow ore boats more operation during December than normally.

Mail 1953 Fishing Licenses Earlier

The conservation department started distribution of its 1953 fishing licenses recently, and expects most of the 4,000 dealers to be supplied this week.

The early mailing results from a legislative change, beginning this year, licenses will be effective from December 1 to December 31 the following year, a period of 13 months. Before the change, licenses ran from January 1 to December 31. The change eases the year-end rust of mailings that formerly resulted.

As last year, 1,200,000 resident licenses and 230,000 temporary non-resident licenses were printed. Also 250,000 annual non-resident licenses, an increase of 20,000 from last year, were printed along with 1,600,000 fish law digests, an increase of 100,000.

The only decrease came on trout stamps; 320,000 were ordered last year, 300,000 this year.

Rainbow School Chatter

By JUDY and SALLY

Sometime in the near future we will see a band concert—the first of the season. On the program there are a number of favorites, from the longhaired "Adoramus Te" to another bed-time story entitled "Dangerous Dan McGrew." Also we will have the "Sea Fantasy" overture with the theme of "Blow the Man Down" running through, producing a rather weird sea effect, the march "National Victors," the well-known "Glow-Worm" and a flute trio. This town certainly has reason to be proud of their high-school band, and if the rate of newcomers keeps on as it has, we will have an excellent big band, as well. All this is big thanks to Mr. Actelli, who has really done a fine job with our band.

Dec. 11 is the date of the first choral concert of the year. A silver offering will be taken, to start a fund for Acapella choir robes. Those will be nice to have when other concert days roll around—not to mention the May Festival. The first part of the concert will be devoted to non-Christmas music, with "One World" and "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" as high spots. Then the second half will be entirely Christmas music, "Silent Night" and "Lo, How a Rose" being two of the numbers. Both Junior High groups and both Senior High groups will participate, and there will be several solos and trios.

Here's a bit of Freshman news. Seems the Frosh are successful in everything they do. Including dances, turkey contests, and amateur shows. And they hold up as proof the status of their treasury, $150 or more! We call this pretty good! The Seniors—remember that they didn't hit this mark until sometime in their Sophomore year. Pretty lazy bunch, what say?

Pierre LeBlanc was the second person this year to entertain the students of E. J. with an assembly program. The program called "Tricks on Parade" was given yesterday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock in the Gym. It was very interesting and was enjoyed by everyone.

Well, the ice has finally been broken as far as the basketball season is concerned. Our first game, which was non-conference is over, and now the boys are ready to plow through Peleton tomorrow night. Can't help thinking how happy Coach Saxton would be to have a "Championship" basketball team, too.

The Frosh Dance last week had a wonderful turn-out considering that it was given during the confusion of Thanksgiving. Bud Scott was the lucky Turkey winner. Mr. and Mrs. Jankovick, Mr. and Mrs. Mosier, and Miss Joanne Nachazel were the chaperones.

Most of the FHA girls can hardly wait for their little get-together next Tuesday night. Many of them have heartily agreed that it will be wonderful to get away from the opposite sex for at least one night. We don't know yet what the plans for entertainment outside of making candy and popcorn, but we can assure you that when you get all these FHA girls together, they can think of something to do.

Yesterday was just about the gloomiest day that E. J. H. S. has ever witnessed. The reason being: REPORT CARD DAY. We didn't have time to get the Honor Roll ready for this edition, but we will have it in next week. We promise!

LEGION Auxiliary News

Plans for the Community Christmas program are getting off to a good start with donations beginning to come in. Community Service Chairman for the Legion Auxiliary Unit 227, Peggy Thomas, who has charge of this program would like the people of the community to be informed as to how the money and other donations are acquired.

Donations for Community Christmas to date, Community Chest $100.00, Past Matrons OES 3.00, Legion & Aux. (B. Social) 49.00, Kate Stinchcomb New dress for small girl. The Study Club have pledged to give mittens.

If any organization or group wish to participate in this program either by donations of new dresses, other articles of clothing, toys, books, etc. contact Peggy Thomas, so that credit may be given the group. There are many dolls that will have to be dressed. This is a part of the program that has been carried out for the past few years and the women of East Jordan have responded splendidly. The dolls have always looked so nice, each dressed differently and any little girl who ever received one should have been proud and happy to have such a lovely dressed baby for her very own. Anyone may get one of these dolls to dress by contacting Peggy Thomas.

The Auxiliary are still asking for useable toys, these must be turned in soon if they are to be repaired if need be.

Don't forget the Auxiliary Chicken Supper for this project Wednesday December 17, at the Legion Home come and bring your family. Tickets are on sale and may be purchased from Edna Wilkins, or they may be bought at the door.

Urge Use Of Winter Parks

Use of state parks and recreation areas for winter sports is encouraged wherever possible. Special facilities for winter sports are available in Grayling and Highland recreation areas, in the Porcupine Mountains and Muskegon state park. Open slopes, suitable for skiing are found in many other parks and recreation areas.

Electric Service Interrupted By Hunter's Bullets

Shots from the guns of hunters apparently intentionally, cut off Consumers Power Company's electric service in East Jordan and several other communities in the Company's Northwest Division. Division Manager, Bob D. Hilly, said there were several interruptions Saturday afternoon, November 22, when something, apparently a bullet, from a deer hunter's rifle severed a high voltage transmission line one-half mile east of Mio, about 30 miles east of Grayling. Mr. Hilly said:

several shots rang out just before the line parted. He said that several marks, apparently caused by bullets, were found on a conductor near the break in the line. Service interruptions were kept fairly brief through rerouting of the power supply. Some areas were without power for a few minutes and others nearly an hour. Line crews completed repair of the line some hours later.

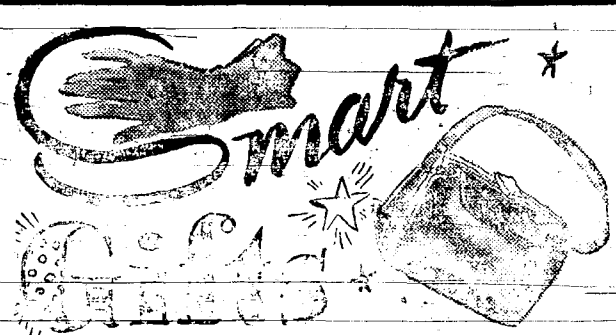

Mr. Hilly said that the line was the third transmission line in the Company's area to be damaged by bullets in this year's deer season.

East Jordan stores are gift-packed for Christmas.

JORDAN VALLEY TALK

'Bout Hunting & Fishing

By Doris

A number of local deer hunters redeemed their license fees and made use of tags during the last three days of the season. Smallest of some of the "Any Deer Season" critters downed by hunters was reported at thirty-seven pounds, while one feminine nimrod shot two buck fawns that weighed about forty-five pounds each.

Sixteen consecutive years of deer hunting has netted Percy Penfold as many deers. Can anyone beat this record?

Greg Boswell, Johnny Kowich and Andy Anderson closed the Fall rainbow fishing season Sunday. Though they scored no hits, no bites, and consequently no fish, they had a beautiful sunny Northern Michigan day complete with snowy landscape to help freeze lines.

Big anticipation for local fishing enthusiasts now that trout season is over is the January 1st opening of spearing season, thru the Ice Jack - light spearing from boats is now in full swing on Lake Michigan, Lake Charlevoix, Torch Lake and other lakes in the area.

How mean can some people be? Elmer Green local trapper, reports the loss of two mink and one coon to hunters who removed the animals as well as the traps. He could tell by the evidence left behind. The human "skoinks".

Elmer has had excellent luck with one of his traps, 11 muskrats trapped in 9 days.

Other local trappers, including Milford Winstone, are reporting theft of their traps. The loss of the expensive equipment cuts greatly into the hard earned wages of a trapper.

One group of fellows thankful for the end of deer season are those possessors of hounds, straining to get afield again and chase up a few hundred rabbits.

The story of Rea Thomas's deer hunting came from a highly informed source, evidently highly informed incorrectly! With deep apology to Rea (and Uncle Sam), we now report that the erroneous report still caused high excitement among deer hunters, newspaper editors, radio and television commentators State-wide. It made an unusual news story. Whoever originated the idea provided interest and fun for a lot of people who admired the pluck of a lady mail carrier, even though the episode "just ain't so," says Rea.

Banks School Plans Home Coming Program

Final plans for the first Home Coming of Banks School were announced this week. The date is Friday, December 12th with a luncheon at 5 p.m. to start the festivities. This event is sponsored by the Junior Class who will be in charge of the luncheon.

A program has been arranged paying tribute to the graduates of the school with special recognition to the class of 1928, who graduated 25 years ago. That year the basketball team went to the quarter finals in the state tournament.

The crowning of the Home Coming Queen Sue Kaley will be the highlight of the program.

Following the luncheon and program, buses will be on hand to transport the Alumni to East Jordan to attend the Ellsworth-Elk Rapids Game.

It is hoped that everyone who possibly can, will attend to take advantage of this opportunity to greet old classmates. The Juniors have tried to contact all graduates of the school, but if you have been missed, would you please drop a card to the Junior Class of Banks School so your name may be added to the list.

Sports Talk

by LEON BARTLETT

Hi sport fans! Jim Shepard was chosen on the "All Northern" team and some wondered how a player in the class "C" conference could make a team like that. Well, you would always see Jim in there blocking and tackling and watching him play you would know why he hit the "All Northern."

We hear that Charles Krahnke, of Charlevoix, is also doing well down at Michigan State along with Don Whiteford. It will be something to look forward to, seeing them playing together and supporting the Charlevoix county sports fan morale. We don't believe the two have ever played on the same team before this.

Basketball is really getting under way now. Coach is ironing out the teams' faults and placing the boys in different positions. It may be a tough conference this year as most of the teams have letter men back.

Sorry to hear that Sam Milstein, our first string half back this year, is sick and will be out of school until after Christmas. Hope he gets well soon, because the basketball team will need his experience this season.

Congratulations are due Mrs. Peck for having the largest deer up to this date; and to Kay Peck for having the smallest. Mrs. Peck's deer scaled 174 pounds and Kay's was said to weigh about 45 pounds. Kay was hunting with a 22 rifle and both deer were shot around Deer Lake.

Speaking of deer hunting, Bob Darbee and I have a couple of stories to tell. We went out Saturday and with a lot of luck brought two home. I wounded mine and found it dead in a swamp and as we were dragging it out Bob discovered something coming over the hill.

He was carrying the guns and as he saw it was a deer he threw my gun down in the snow. With two shots he downed it then moved up and killed it.

Extension Tea in Bellaire Extension Club members in this vicinity are invited to attend the county Christmas Tea in Bellaire, Dec. 10. You are also urged to make and bring articles that would make good Christmas gifts for the Christmas display tables.

MICHIGAN OUTDOORS NEWS

Cooperation of conservation enforcement officers in Indiana and Michigan put an end to one violator's activity recently, the conservation department reports.

The story began to unfold when an alert Indiana officer found a deer in a locker plant in his area, bearing a Michigan resident tag. The deer belonged to an Indiana resident.

He notified Michigan authorities, who began a routine check. They found the man had purchased a resident hunting license. Checking further, they found he also purchased a half-year Michigan auto license and a Michigan operator's license to make the whole story of his Michigan residence look real.

Finally, Indiana reported the violator was back in Michigan, trying for another deer—having used his wife's license for the first one. Apprehended, he was charged with hunting illegally on a Michigan resident license and with removing a deer from the state illegally.

The violator paid fines and costs totalling $115, had hunting privileges revoked for three years and was given seven days in jail to mull the whole affair.

Indiana and Michigan cooperated on the case as acting members of the Association of Midwestern Fish and Game Law Enforcement Officers.

The conservation department started distribution of its 1953 fishing licenses recently, and expects most of the 4,000 dealers to be supplied by December 1.

The early mailing results from a legislative change, beginning this year, licenses will be effective from December 1 to December 31 the following year, a period of 13 months. Before the change, licenses ran from January 1 to December 31. The change eases the year-end rush of mailings that formerly resulted.

As last year, 1,200,000 resident licenses and 230,000 temporary nonresident licenses were printed. Also 250,000 annual nonresident licenses, an increase of 20,000 from last year, were printed along with 1,600,000 fish law digests an increase of 100,000.

The only decrease came on trout stamps; 320,000 were ordered last year, 300,900 this year.

Six timber auctions have been slated December 3, 4 and 5 for cutting permits on 1,200-1,500 acres in six state forests, the conservation department reports.

Cuttings will be authorized in Baraga, Escanaba River, Grand Sable, Mackinac and Menominee state forests in the upper peninsula and in Thunder Bay River state forest, the lower peninsula.

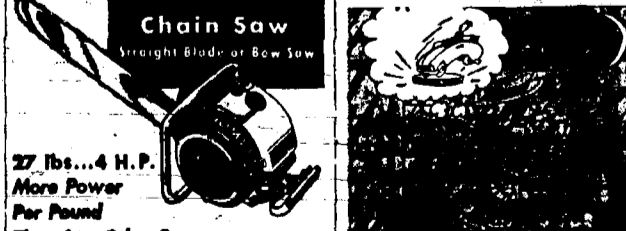

Included in the cuttings will be 800,000 board feet of hemlock, maple, birch, beech and jackpine saw timber. Other cuttings include 9,700 cedar posts, 3,200 tie cuts and 4,700 cords of spruce, balsam, poplar, birch and jackpine for pulpwood.

Local district foresters can provide additional information as to times and places of the auctions.

House Not Open Cause Of Asthma, U-M Doctor Says

Wheezing and coughing during the winter time are usually due to an allergic illness similar to hay fever, but caused by house dust instead of pollen, according to a University of Michigan allergy specialist.

Most hay fever and asthma sufferers experience their symptoms during the pollen seasons of spring, summer and fall. Dr. Robert G. Lowell, instructor in internal medicine and assistant in the University Health Service laboratory clinic, says:

But the explanation that there is still another batch of "wheezers" who pick up where the pollen "sneezers" leave off.

It is easy to understand why there is plenty of dust in the home during the late fall and winter, he explains. Furnaces and blankets and quilts are added, bedding, and household pets usually remain in tests and are added to the dust. The doctor usually is able to establish the diagnosis with some simple skin tests and to recommend measures which often bring complete relief.

People with winter asthma, in many cases, develop additional sensitivities, making the diagnosis much more difficult. Dr. Lowell adds:

All persons with shortness of breath without additional postnasal discharge should be attended by a competent physician, he advises.

STRAIGHT FROM THE FIELD

FARM GOSSIP COLUMN

(Compiled and Edited by the News Staff)

Farmers this winter are doing more talking than ever about deer eating their crops and nibbling at their fruit trees. They point to the big loss the deer cause to farmers annually and say something should be done about it.

Another thing farmers are saying: "We should be allowed to kill at least one deer per season on our own property without a license."

Some think that getting a deer without a license would not pay for the damage done their crops, but it would help.

However, letting farmers hunt deer on their own property without a license raises many questions. If a farmer got over the property line and shot a deer, who would know?

But it still remains that something should be done about the farmer-deer problem because the animals are increasing in numbers. The suggestion has been made that farmers be given a license to hunt which would cost them a nominal fee—25 or 50 cents. This might satisfy many farmers, but it would do little toward easing the problem of deer destroying farm crops and fruit trees.

Many Michigan farmers were watching with much interest who the Republicans would give the nod for the position of Secretary of Agriculture. The Grange supported Dr. John Hannah, president, Michigan State College, for the job. And in Michigan there was at least one group who talked up the name of Charles Figy, state director of agriculture.

The day it was made known that President elect Eisenhower had named Ezra Taft Benson to the post, Director Figy wrote the East Jordan News that he had "the highest regard for Dr. Hannah." He reported that it was his belief that Dr. Hannah could have handled the national agricultural job very capably.

The man named by Eisenhower to replace present Secretary Brannan as agricultural chief in Washington is a former official of the national council of farmer cooperatives. He lives at Salt Lake City, Utah. Benson is a farm marketing specialist and it is reported that he is not in accord with what farmers generally know as "the Brennan Plan."

4-H Youth In County May Earn Conservation Trip

Instruction and experience in conserving Michigan's natural resources will come to 150 4-H boys and girls through a new conservation program announced by A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H Club leader.

Boys and girls in this area have completed at least a year-long program in the 4-H conservation project will be eligible to participate and earn a trip to a state conservation camp. Previously only boys could attend such a camp.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company and Michigan Independent Telephone Association are sponsoring the camp, including transportation to and from, and living expenses while there. In addition, medals will be presented to conservation project winners in Charlevoix and other counties and a boy and girl in the state will earn an expense-paid trip to the national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

The new program will be supervised by the state 4-H Club office. Michigan Bell plans to spend more than $3,000 annually on the program.

Farmers Should Form Groups To Control Grubs

Now is the time for Charlevoix county farmers to form groups and start plans for a successful control of cattle grubs—on a community-wide basis.

The common cattle grub, or warble, is found in backs of cattle from January to mid-March and the bomb fly, another species, comes from mid-March to June. Flies of the grub lay eggs quietly. The bomb fly scares cattle and makes them run as it buzzes around their legs to lay eggs.

Control work for both species is the same. Farmers may obtain advice from their county agricultural agents or from MSC. Rotonone is the approved insecticide, with dust or salve—not both at one treatment—preferred for winter. Rotonone spraying in winter is not recommended but farmers may make that choice for themselves.

Material like DDT is not a good control. Most heel applications fail to do the job. An oil spray with pyrethrum cuts the grub population generally as a secondary result of spraying for horn flies. Only non-odoriferous pyrethrum should be used and milk

TV GOES BIG TIME AT MSC

Michigan State College officials are making plans to have the college's television station in full operation by the fall of 1953. M.S.C. expects to start construction of a 1,000-foot tower as soon as materials are available. The station will cover a 34-66 mile radius operating on ultra-high frequency channel 50. Michigan State has been in television for having operated its own fully-equipped closed circuit network for two years. During this time both students and faculty secured valuable training through use of these facilities. The college television department also has supplied programs on film to commercial TV stations around the state. "Going on the air," therefore, involves installing and installing the transmitter, according to M. S. C. Television Director Armand L. Hunter. Shown above are scenes of TV action at Michigan State. Pictures 1 and 2 show the production of two information programs for the housewife; 3 and 4 picture the technical experts at work; and 5-7 show students in classroom and in the studio preparing for a live TV must be guarded against contamination.

Rotonone dust may be hand-dusted or applied over the warble area and worked in with a brush or by hand. Rotonone must enter the grub openings to do the job. Bath dust and salve should be at a 14 percent strength. Petroleum jelly can be used for a salve base and only enough for one or two treatments should be mixed.

East Jordan stores are gift-wrapped for Christmas.

During the first 10 months of 1952, the conservation department reported a total of 20 wolves killed in the upper peninsula. During the first 10 months of 1951, only five had been bountied.

Holiday Food Costs Must Be Watched, Expert Says

Holiday food costs may go zooming up in your family if you don't check your food buying habits carefully, warns Faye Kinder, MSC foods and nutrition department.

For instance, do you use reconstituted dry milk solids for one or all of the milk consumption in your family? If not, you are missing an opportunity to save money while providing your family with inexpensive milk. Do you take care to buy inexpensive fats such as lard for cooking?

When you are pondering in front of the meat counter, do a little mental calculation and figure out how many servings a pound or piece of meat will make. Figure up mentally how much the eggs or fish will cost per person.

Miss Kinder points out that buying in-season foods is wise. When fresh oranges are in abundance, buy them fresh and when not, buy canned or frozen orange juice. Following this suggestion will mean keeping track of plentiful and less expensive foods in your markets at all times of the year.

Be cautious about buying "ready-made" foods. The price paid for them includes a lot of service and packaging which lifts the price all out of proportion to the cost of the food itself.

Finally, be alert to save even a few cents each time you go to market will amount to a pretty big sum by the end of the year.

ORCHARD NOTES

By C. Fairman

As each grower's set up and problem is somewhat different along the lines of mulching, all I can tell you is what we do here at home, what I read, and what is noted in other orchards. All fruits can be mulched, although at times this causes peaches to grow late in the fall and now and then cherries also depending on the age of the cherry trees. As a rule, where we have so many apple trees, our mulch job is not too large. We have adopted a system of mulching apples and peaches and cultivating around them. This balances our work better. We haul in mulch in the fall and winter and early spring and spread the same in the spring. Eventually we have cleared land to clear and fix up so that we can grow our own mulch. This will be much better than any mulch we can buy. Some of the clovers such as alfalfa, sweet clover, etc., are excellent for mulch and are being almost a complete fertilizer for fruit trees. In some cases it is a complete fertilizer. Enough mulch is used and the mulch spread well out to the tips of the branches or further, will produce a good tree and fruit crops although on the average the trees seldom get as large as cultivated trees. But with apples and peaches the smaller tree is usually of a handier size. The advantage of mulching is that the roots come up to the top of the ground. All vegetation such as leaves, weeds, and grass and other fertility remains on the soil. The soil will not wash or blow away and all fertility is conserved.

The disadvantage of using mulch is that it offers a great fire hazard as from a dropped match, etc. More mouse protection is needed. There is more drought effect especially on cherries. It is not natural for stones or early ripening fruits of any kind. Your own experiments are the best, and you should consider whether your land is hilly or on a long slope, or what.

Farmers Must Help Wheat Over Winter

Lack of soil moisture until mid-November is sending a lot of late-planted wheat into winter in poor condition. Heavy winter injury may develop from freezing and heaving, warns E. D. Long, extension soils scientist at Michigan State College.

Some farmers have taken steps to protect the scanty top growth and root development by covering the thinner spots in wheat fields with stable manure while ground was dry. This light blanket of manure cuts freezing and heaving damage, explains Long, as well as providing extra plant food, particularly nitrogen—which may be needed. It improves soil moisture conditions by lessening evaporation and increasing water intake during heavy rains.

Farmers still can reduce winter harm. If soil is dry enough to hold the spreader—or if not now, when ground freezes—they should start top-dressing their wheat fields with stable manure. If manure is not available by early winter, nitrogen next spring should help offset part of winter's damage.

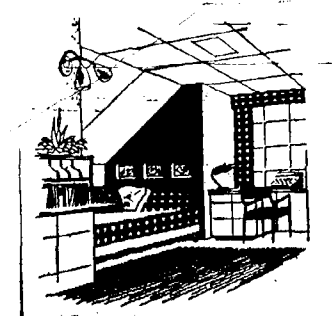

MSC Receives Check For Continuing Its Driver Education

East Lansing — A second check for $10,000 has been given to Michigan State college to continue its driver education program which reaches both adults and high school students.

The check was presented to M. S. C. by the Michigan Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee. Just a year ago, with the aid of the initial $10,000 gift, the nation's first professorship in driver education was established. Prof. Leslie R. Silvernale of the M. S. C. Continuing Education Service now directs the driver training program.

Prof. Silvernale explained that the program is designed to reach more than 350 high schools which offer driver training courses. Workshops and educational conferences are also held on campus to study driver education problems.

The court case was started recently to solve the question of whether or not fishermen have rightful access to the lake.
Henry M. Lucy, owner of property surrounding the lake, says they do not. Attorney Olds says a small stream outlet is navigable public water and therefore does provide fishermen access to the lake.
