Over the Back Fence

By Marshall

The other day a fellow said a small town is a place where everyone knows what every one else is doing but wants to read the local paper too see if they have been caught at it.

If you want to know why newspapers are subject to errors in type now and then, take a look at this. In the sentence "To be or not to be" there are 2,759,022 possible chances for error by transpositions.

That first sign of spring brought out city workers who have begun cleaning the main streets. High wind this week put loose sand every where except where it belonged.

Already the stores are advertising garden seeds and tools. If there is any way to rush the season, we're with 'em.

They say growing pains come when a kid goes to the movies and has to pay adult prices for the first time.

The last of the fish shantys were removed from the lake this week. Warm weather and high wind turn the ice black and very dangerous under foot.

Local fishermen are expecting one of the largest smelt runs here in many years. Large numbers of smelt have been seen in the lake and in the mouths of nearby rivers.

They say marriage is where a man gives up privileges he never knew he had.

When an editor gets to really worrying about the inroads of radio and TV advertising, it is comforting to know that people will always have garbage to wrap and pups to train — Aigoma (Iowa) Advance.

The current survey to discover the amount of labor available in this area reveals the book published by the University of Michigan Bureau of Government of the Institute of Public Administration.

It says northern Michigan has been going through a general population exodus, with people moving to southern sections of the state and building up urban areas which have access to metropolitan cities.

This is the analysis of Michigan population in 1955. In 1955 the most conspicuous feature of migration viewed in its totality was the general drift from the northern to the southern section of the state. The population has been shifting from extractive industries to fabrication and service industries.

Michigan residents in the ages of young adulthood, 15 to 30 years, were more migratory than persons above or below these ages, and single persons were found to go more often to larger cities than married persons.

Knowing this, the current local survey is being conducted statewide as well as this area. It is being done with the knowledge that many persons who have left here have expressed desire to return immediately when employment is made available.

It is the opinion of many that an industrial plant here would attract plenty of labor for its requirements.

Notice!

Chairman M. N. McDaniel, of the East Jordan Businessmen's Association has called a special industrial meeting of all merchants. It will be held 7:30 tonight at the American Legion hall.

The chairman said the meeting is being held in connection with important information concerning prospective new industry for East Jordan.

All members are urged to attend.

Their Eyes Are On The Jordan

Fishermen throughout northern Michigan and many in the cities to the south have their eyes on the famous Jordan River. For Rainbow and Steelhead season opens on the Jordan in 15 days.

Saturday, April 11th you may fish on the Jordan only from Webster bridge on down and including Lake Charlevoix.

The big rush to the Rainbow City is expected when regular trout season opens, Saturday, April 25th—30 days from now.

It will be the opening date for all species of trout, brook, brown and rainbow, and will cover all streams and rivers designated as trout waters.

The Jordan, known throughout the state for its Rainbow, is a regular spring attraction to fishermen. The subject of many newspaper and magazine articles, the river has been filmed; and treasured still "shots" grace many a fisherman's album.

Guides and boats are available for those wishing to fish the Jordan. Local restaurants and overnight housing are also available.

100 Percent Merchants Favor Ironworks New Expansion

The East Jordan Iron Works received a one hundred percent approval of their current expansion plans when the East Jordan Businessmen's Association gathered for their general monthly meeting at the American Legion hall, March 19.

Following their policy of seeking to aid present industry as well as to welcome new plants, the group went on record supporting the Iron Works request for expansion on Spring street.

The motion was made by Vern Whiteford and supported by Leo Sommerville and the unanimous vote came when Chairman McDaniel called for a show of hands.

North State Cities Prepare For Industry

Industrial plans for expansion are being taken off the shelf and activated at a rapid rate, Don Weeks, director of the Michigan Department of Economic Development, told the Northwest Michigan Industrial Development Council at Thompsonville, Thursday.

About one half of the 40 larger towns in the Council have surveys completed and most of the others are working on one.

Directors Bob Hilty, of Traverse City, and Bert Lemley, of Thompsonville, urged that any town in the area wishing help to contact the secretary or any member of the Executive board.

Merl Lutz, secretary Traverse City Chamber of Commerce, told how Traverse City had expanded their local industry and suggested that each community check with their own industry and offer help if required. Lutz offered the advice and help of the Traverse City Chamber of Commerce to any community in the area.

Vice President Kirkpatrick called attention of the Council to the job being done by the county agricultural agents—Kirkpatrick asked the directors of each county to invite their county agent as their guest for the special farm meeting, May 15, to be held on a (Continued on page 4)

Those interested in full time, year around industrial employment in this area, are asked to fill out the blank found elsewhere in this issue.

If you have a friend who might be interested in this type of work, you are requested to pass the blank along to him.

ASKED FOR SURVEY

The survey is the result of a direct request by a prospective industrial plant considering East Jordan.

Members of the East Jordan Businessmen's Association discussed the survey and the prospect at length at their regular monthly meeting, March 19.

In addition, the Industrial Development Corporation, headed by Howard Porter, discussed all phases involved in raising and handling of local funds. The money would be used to aid construction of a building for the prospective factory.

SHOW OF FAITH

It was pointed out that the firm is sound financially and the amount contributed by residents toward construction of a building would be a "show of faith and local interest" toward new industry.

The development corporation working closely with the businessmen's association is giving aid and advice concerning the raising of funds as a local investment to residents taking part.

Pledge cards are being printed and method of solicitation will be worked out by a special committee.

The approach to locating the industry closely parallels work done by surrounding communities now enjoying new factories.

WASHINGTON CIRCUS

Congress should support President Eisenhower in his request that a balanced budget get priority over tax reduction.

To cut taxes without balancing the budget would be to say that we'll continue to pile up deficits whenever it requires sacrifice to adopt a pay-as-we-go policy. We'd all like lower taxes, but lower taxes with budget deficits mean more inflation and a cheaper dollar. A cheaper dollar costs all Americans more than any tax Congress might impose.

Fix Needles, Stop Trouble In Machines

If your sewing machine is acting up these days, chances are it is the needle that is the villain. Arthur J. Bell, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State college, reports that 80 per cent of all sewing machine trouble is caused by the needle.

A needle that is too long, too short, bent, blunt or incorrectly put into the machine can be the source of difficulties. Bell points out that there are 8,000 different kinds of sewing machines and only eight styles of needles that will fit any of those machines. The secret is to get the right needle for your machine.

Bell advises buying machine needles by number of letter rather than by telling the make of machine. Look on your machine for needle specifications, he suggests. Or if you are buying a new sewing machine, be sure to get manufacturers' instructions about the right needle size.

A blunt needle will pick up threads of the fabric and cause puckering, Bell warns. A needle that is too short prevents stitching at all. A too-long needle might mean skipped stitches. A bent needle will cause skipped stitches sometimes, too. A sewing machine needle generally has a groove the full length of the needle. This groove must go in the machine toward the side from which the machine is threaded. If the needle isn't properly installed in the machine the thread will break as the needle goes down through the material.

Keep your sewing machine clean, Bell urges. Use an oil that is made for sewing machines and avoid unnecessary residue when the oil evaporates, he advises.

JUDGE BROWN, MAIN SPEAKER American Legion, Auxiliary Celebrate 34th Birthday

The American Legion Rebec-Sweet Post 227 and Auxiliary celebrated the 34th birthday of the Legion Tuesday, March 17th, by having a pot luck supper at the Legion home. The flags were presented and the invocation was given by eVrn Whiteford, Post Chaplain. The Legion Preamble was said in-unison.

Music appropriate for St. Patrick's day, also many old favorites songs of the service men of both World War I and II, was played on the Hammond Organ by Rhea Thomas. A beautiful birthday cake decorated in the Legion colors of blue and gold and was the highlight of the table decorations. It was cut by Eva Peterson, who had baked and donated it for the occasion.

Post Commander Frank Stucker acted as master of ceremonies. Commander Stucker presented four members of the post 30 year service awards. The members were Tom St. Charles, Joe Bugal, Ed Kamradt and Vern Whiteford. The Commander spoke of their work over the years in helping to make Rebec-Sweet Post the fine organization it is today. He then read a history of the post compiled by Tom St. Charles.

The Commander of the Lower 11th District, Leon Fenske of Petoskey, was introduced. He gave a fine talk on the power of membership. Commander Fenske, presented certificates of meritorious service to members of the post for their outstanding work in securing members. Those receiving certificates were Bill Bennett, Vale Gee, Roman Dubas, and Cyril Dolezel. The last two were not present to receive theirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps of South Boardman, were introduced. Mrs. Phelps is Lower 11th District Auxiliary President.

The guest speaker of the evening, Judge Brown of Traverse City, and Chairman of the Veterans Fund Committee for the State of Michigan was then presented. Judge Brown, gave a talk on the principals of the American Legion emphasizing that the Legion was not alone an organization for the betterment of the Veterans but rather an organization for the good of the community. State and Nation. Judge Brown said that everyone lived up and practiced the aims of the Legion, this would be a better Nation as well as a better World in which to live. He also spoke of the great fear of the atomic bomb and expressed his belief that man would not destroy the world as is the common fear today but would always find ways to counteract weapons of destruction. He stated that fundamentally there are only four laws, physical law, law pertaining to science or material things; religious law, the law of God; political law, law relating to organized government; and economic law. These laws are the basis of our government and thru them this nation and the world will time come out of the chaos it is now in.

Mrs. Brown, who accompanied her husband was then introduced, also Jerry McKinnon and Sam Bricker who are Korean Veterans. The colors were retired and everyone prepared to watch some very interesting color slides which were taken by Jerry and Sam while in service in Korea. Though some of the scenery was very beautiful, they impressed on everyone's mind the grim fact that there is a shooting war going on with boys of many Nations endangering their lives for an oppressed people.

Sportsman's Paradise On The Famous Jordan River

(From the Detroit Free Press) If you like to fish a river which flows through uninhabited forest, try the Jordan River in Antrim County. There are only a couple of cabins near the bridges.

All the rest is without the "improvements" of man. There is not a "Keep Out" sign anywhere. "You can get put in your boat at Chestonia, as I did with Teddy Kotowich, of East Jordan, and Vern Jubenville of Detroit. At first you will find flat water for fly fishing. Then the river picks up speed, narrows down, and bowls through close-hung cedars, black alder and spruce.

There are deep holes, swift bends, and fast runs which qualify as rapids. Fly fishing is out of the question there. It's a plunker's paradise.

It's a five-mile trip from Chestonia to Webster's Bridge, as we made it, and a full day's fishing. Half-way, you can pull your boat up the bank and stop for a meal. If you want to fish farther upstream, you can find it above Chestonia. In all there are some 12 miles of trout water in the Jordan Valley. Every bit of it open to the public and always will.

The Jordan does not meander like some streams. It knows pretty well where it wants to go, and it gets to the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix in a hurry. Boatmen enjoy the Jordan. It's ideal for canoe trips.

There are few deadheads and no log jams. There are rainbows and browns and a few brooks. Fishing is best in mid-summer when many other streams go into the doldrums.

How the Jordan Valley became public property is a story that few people know. The idea originated with Joe Bugal at East Jordan. The writer had a hand in shoving it along. It was finally consummated when the United States Forest Service began consolidating Federal forests in Michigan. The Jordan Valley was purchased by Uncle Sam and exchanged to the State for lands inside Federal forest areas.

These exchanges, first suggested by the late P. S. Lovejoy of Ann Arbor brought many wanted acres into State ownership. Although turned over to the Federal Government, these same are just as much open to the public as if owned by the State.

Bugal moved to East Jordan in 1932, from Big Rapids. Even then he was worried by the fencing-in of favorite fishing holes along the Pere Marquette, Little Manistee and Pine rivers.

He saw the Jordan as the answer to a fisherman's prayer. There was not a house on it, not a "Keep Out" sign. Bugal wanted to keep it that way.

The entire valley was then owned by the East Jordan Lumber Co. for whom Bugal worked as auditor. He told his dream to Harry Ruhl, chief of the State's game division.

He told the writer about it. He went ahead on his own and obtained options on the area in favor of the State at $2.00 an acre, a reasonable price for those days. That was some years ago, when there was no "40 cent fund" for acquisition of public fishing sites. At that time, the "$1.50 fund" of deer license money was pretty well earmarked for Upper Peninsula use.

Options expired several times but always Bugal hopefully negotiated their renewal with W. P. Porter, who also loved the valley and wished to keep it unspoiled. In 1934, with the inauguration of the Federal Lands exchange program, the break came.

In a series of three exchanges, 12,580 acres were acquired. Some 3,540 acres of tax-reverted lands were already in public ownership. Subsequently, 3,960 acres more were brought, bringing the total of publicly-owned land in the Jordan Valley to 21,048 acres.

A real contribution also was made by John and Howard Porter, heirs of W. P. Porter. The State owns little land north of Chestonia Bridge, and the land

Well, another basketball season is over and East Jordan finished very well this season. The boys voted on who would be the honorary captain for the 52-53 season but the results are not yet known.

There was a meeting Monday for all boys interested in tennis. East Jordan plans to form a tennis team this spring. Mr. Damoth will coach the team. It is very unlikely that they will have any matches with other schools this year. However, if they do, it will be with Class B schools. There are no Class C schools having a tennis team. Boys attending the meeting were Gary Bartlett, Dick Bailey, Francis Trojaneck, Fred De Haven, Everett Beishlag, Roger Stoke, Jerry O'Brien and Robert Lick.

The baseball and track teams will begin in about a week. Mr. Saxton plans to coach both. Tennis and baseball will be played after school; track will be practiced during the last period of school. If a boy wishes to take up baseball, he is compelled to take track too. But, so that boys that ride buses can get home at the usual time, they can take track and not baseball.

The basketball boys enjoyed a very nice dinner at the home of Ole Nielson Tuesday evening, and are planning another on Monday of next week at Jennie's.

IMP-LINGO

By THE IMP

Hi, Jordan!
The A Capella Choir had better get a good rating for all the practicing they're doing. Let's go, kids!

Say! What happened to Larry and E. N. I noticed some pretty lovin' couples in a class meeting a few days ago!

Seems a certain Sophomore Junior-Senior triangle ironed itself out. Result: one sophomore win!

Have you heard about the "Spring Promenade?" I guess it's going to be a tradition same as the Prom except sponsored by the Senior Class. It's a formal dance. They have a good orchestra coming from Mancelona, April 11th, 8:00 o'clock. $1.50 per couple. I hear it's going to be pretty good, but eighth graders can't come! That lets out, Sandy, Judy, and a couple of others I won't mention. Too bad, kids.

Has anyone seen my orange stocking cap?

Say! How are we coming on the Junior Play? We're pretty satisfied with our choice of a play—a Maxwell Family play, and Wilbur and "Here" (played by Ron W. and Jim-B.) go visiting and end up in a morgue! Laugh, &-wah!!

And not to mention the Prom and Banquet to put on—oooh—headaches, headaches, HEAD-ACHES!

I guess they're putting nice surprises in people's lockers lately. Such as dead mice and rabbit heads!

And-going on with Biology. Mr. Ogden seems to pour it on instead of let up a little. Now how would you all like to start up a petition of protest?

And speaking of petitions, I guess that one the Juniors had about not being able to go to Career Day didn't work. Tough, Jrs.

I hear there isn't any danger of our basketball team being underfed! A turkey dinner, a chicken dinner—Whaw! Well, they certainly deserve it!

And the tennis team is getting on the road now. I hear there are about 8 girls that want to get in on that too. How about that, fellas!

How's baseball coming? It's about time for my favorite sport to start.

How do you think the hard fought for monitor system is working? I didn't notice anyone in the upper hall lately last hour.

Francis
Well, I have work to do...

Lancers Win From Gwinn Lose At Semi's

From Ellsworth Correspondent

In the quarter finals of the State Basketball Tournament played in Mt. Pleasant the Ellsworth Lancers were paired with the fast breaking team from Gwinn. This was a game where the locals in order to win had to slow down the men with the fast break. Gwinn got the tip off and on the first play got off to a two point lead. Ellsworth came back to tie up the score and from then on it was basket for basket. The first quarter ended with Gwinn holding a two point advantage 12-10. The second quarter both teams fought it out, basket for basket until nearly half time when Ellsworth pulled ahead 30-24 at the half. The third quarter Ellsworth outscored Gwinn 20-17 and led at the third quarter mark 50-41. Gwinn came roaring back in the 4th period and closed the gap to within 2 points then seemed to tire as the Lancers played control ball and the final score found the Lancers out in front by 12 points 64-52.

Smith and Klooster were high point men for Ellsworth with 28 and 19 while Thurston and Musatte had 22 and 11 for Gwinn. In the free throw department Ellsworth had 16 for 23 tries while Gwinn made 14 out of 23.

Muskegon St. Joseph 56 — Ellsworth 51

On Friday night the Lancers in the Semi finals were paired off with the classy St. Joseph team of Muskegon (who turned out to be class D State Champions) and played them to a standstill during the first two quarters. The first quarter they were tied up 13-13. The second quarter the lead exchanged hands several times with Ellsworth holding a four point advantage at one time in the period. St. Joe came speeding back to tie up the ball game 23-23 at half time.

In the second half the pace seemed a bit too fast for the locals. Gwinn had played two very fast teams within a week St. Mary's and Gwinn) and they began to tire missing many of their free throws and unable to break through the tight defense set up by St. Joe. The third quarter St. Joe led 45-37 and out scored the locals 21-14 in the final quarter to take the game 66-51.

Jim Smith and Henry Klooster again led in the scoring for Ellsworth with 21 and 13 while Koehler and Imcnen had 20 and 18 for St. Josephs. In free throw the Lancers only had 7 out of 20 tries while St. Joe did a little better with 8 out of 16.

This is the first time as far as the old timers we have contacted that an Antrim county team has gone as far as the Semi-finals, and the team and their Coach as well as the loyal fans from all over Northern Michigan who rooted for them are to be congratulated for their efforts and fine sportsmanship.

Ordinance To Try Out Work Of Meetings

The 310th Ordnance Depot Co. with Capt. John N. Barkdoll Commanding, will go on a two week active duty tour this summer to apply what they have learned at their weekly meetings.

The annual summer training will be held at Camp McCoy, in Wisconsin, which is a reserve training camp.

During their two week stay at camp the men will work with regular army men of the post at jobs assigned them in the 310th. This will familiarize them with jobs they will encounter should the 310th be called to active duty. It allows the men to learn the correct way to operate the administrative branch of the unit, as well as how to use new field equipment and recently-developed weapons. It will also serve as a refresher course in marksmanship and ability to live in the field.

Memories Of East Jordan, Spring Operetta

Every child from kindergarten through the sixth grade will participate in the program. The theme and production are entirely original. The organization has been worked out by Mrs. Grace Galmore, Sadie Liskum, Marguerite Stokes, Marie Hughes and Alma Larsen, all teachers who have spent most of their lives in this community. Mrs. Alta Drapeau is working with the committee to tie in appropriate music.

Stories of early logging days, the early schools of the community the steamer "Hum," the Memorial Day Parades and other scenes will be portrayed by the children.

Parents or long time residents who have pictures, articles of logging days, army or G. A. R. regalia, or clothes appropriate for the time are asked to help us out in making "Memories of East Jordan" as realistic as possible.

During our New's Time" last week we talked about the birds that we might watch for, now that spring has come. We are watching to see where these early birds build their nests and what they build them with. Along with this study we listed and talked about some of the signs of spring. Some of the signs were: snow melting, temperature outdoors going up, buds coming out on the trees, crows and robins coming back, mud, pussywillows, roller skating, playing baseball and playing marbles. We will keep adding to this list.

The ELLSWORTH Story

BANKS P. T. A. NOTES

Karl Holt of Elk Rapids, a World War II veteran, was guest speaker for the evening and related his experiences as a war prisoner of the Japanese. He was one of the fortunate ones who survived the Bataan death march and he related the severe and inhuman treatment suffered by our boys. After his talk, he answered questions asked by the group. Music was provided by Jim Smith who sang a solo, with his mother as his accompanist. Also Mrs. Smith led the group in singing several numbers.

During the business meeting it was announced that the nominating committee for the election of officers next month would be selected by the executive board and would be notified.

Following the meeting lunch was served by the committee mesdames William Goeman, Earl Farrell, Harold Stool, Lawrence Wolgamott, Lambert Marcus, Cy Goeman, Henry Wassenaar, Harry Cooper and Dick Wieland.

Mrs. Potter's 5th and 6th grade room won the "kitty" money for the third consecutive month for having the largest percentage of parents present.

Mrs. Alfred Hoeksema and baby daughter, Helen Kay were honored at a baby shower Thursday afternoon in the Ellsworth Christian Church parlors. The afternoon was spent playing games and visiting. Mrs. Hoeksema opened the many lovely gifts after which lunch was served by the hostesses Mesdames Willard Vander Ark, James Rubingh, Jake De Groot, Bernie De Young and Harry De Groot.

STRAIGHT FROM THE FIELD FARM GOSSIP COLUMN

(Compiled and Edited by the News Staff)

Egg production in Michigan totaled 143 million eggs during February, 6 percent less than a year earlier. More than half of the drop from February 1952 is due to 1 less day this year. A few less layers and a lower rate of lay also contributed to hold February output down.

February milk production estimated at 398 million pounds is up 4 percent from a year earlier and a new record for the month. The increased production resulted from a sharp uptrend in cow numbers which started late in 1952. Daily milk production per cow was at record levels but with one less day this year, the February production of 460 pounds per cow did not quite equal last year's record of 462 pounds.

Michigan's monthly milk production has been above the corresponding month a year earlier since June 1952, with the spread increasing sharply since November. For the United States, monthly production moved above that of a year earlier in September 1952, with a sharp increase in December.

For the row crops, farmers intend to plant more corn, sugar beets and potatoes, but fewer beans and soybeans. The intended 1,739,000 acres of corn is up 4 percent from a year earlier, and if planted will be the largest corn acreage since 1946. The indicated 60,000 acres of potatoes and 64,000 acres of sugar beets, if planted will be up 5 and 14 respectively from last year's small acreage for these crops. The 350,000 acres of beans indicated is 3 percent less than last year, and if planted, will be the smallest planted bean acreage in more than 25 years. A drop of 5 percent in soy bean acreage is also indicated.

Michigan's 1951 peak came in March but in 1952 January was the top month. January 1953 set a new record in egg production and may again be the top month of the year, as producers in this area have been buying their chicks earlier in recent years and thus get their flocks into production at an earlier date. For the United States, egg production reached the peak in March for both 1951 and 1952.

Available soil nitrogen for wheat growth this spring may be "Too little and too late" unless manure or commercial fertilizer is applied. Ed Longnecker, soil scientist at Michigan State College, says soil nitrogen becomes available slowly at soil temperatures of 34 degrees and only slightly more rapidly at soil temperatures up to 50 degrees.

Even though warmer weather is now in prospect, it probably will be some time before soil temperatures reach levels high enough to make soil nitrogen readily available. Longnecker urges application of five loads of manure as top dressing now, this month, to supply the needed early-growth nitrogen. If clover was plowed down last fall, extra nitrogen may not be needed now, yet with water soaked soil the nitrogen from plowed-down legumes might not be quickly enough available.

Longnecker says that if a row crop of small grain crop was grown last year and manure is not available for top dressing, then chemical nitrogen fertilizers should be applied. If sulfate of ammonia is used as the source of nitrogen, Longnecker recommends about 100 pounds per acre. If ammonium nitrate, which is about 50 percent stronger in nitrogen is used, than 60 pounds per acre should be used.

Areas where wheat has usually lodged seriously need not be fertilized or top dressed. Most experiments on top dressing or fertilizing wheat in the spring show yield increases of about six and one-half bushels per acre. Longnecker sums up the situation by saying that spending about three dollars per acre for fertilizer should result in about 10 to 15 dollars worth of extra wheat at harvest time. Ed Reberman, county agricultural agent said that farmers who saw the demonstrations last year are planning to put nitrogen on all of their wheat.

Poultrymen with baby chicks should concentrate on watching the chicks, not the thermometer, says Ed Reberman. Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

If farmers watched their chicks, rather than thermometer, and kept them cool and comfortable in daytime with a little extra heat at night, we would get over a lot of this trouble we get from crowding deaths," Reberman said.

A pilot light should be turned on every night to prevent crowding, he adds.

"The quiet chicks are the ones that do not get into trouble by crowding, smothering, picking or feather eating," Reberman says. Sometimes even a squeaky door on a brooder house will scare the chicks into a corner. A drop of oil remedies this situation.

Reberman warns that chilling is a common cause of crowding. But he says fresh air is also important. It gives the chicks a chance to spread out and settle down. The county agricultural agent has been advised in these poultry matters by J. M. Moore, Michigan State College poultry specialist.

There is no question in my mind that chicks that are too warm are more apt to get the feather picking habit which later leads to cannibalism," Moore says.

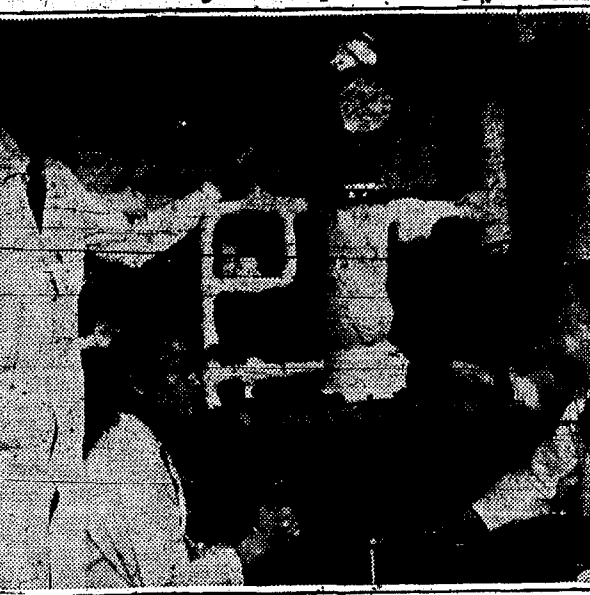

Farmers Cautioned Against Buying Untagged Seed

A. Stahl, State Seed Director, Michigan Department of Agriculture, reports a recent inspection shows that many weed seeds are being disseminated in the state by buying untagged and untagged farm seed. He states, according to Michigan's Seed Law, Act 314 of P. A. 1925 as amended, that the analysis tag on each package must show the commonly accepted names of the seed, approximate percentage by weight of other agricultural seeds than those required to be named on the label, and the name of each kind of seeds of the secondary noxious weeds if present in excess of the specified amount in the Seed Law. All tags on seed offered for sale must also show the approximate percentage of germination and date of test and cannot be more than nine months old. If it is the seed of red clover, alfalfa, soy bean or field corn, the tag must show, too, the state where grown and the name and address of the person who labeled the seed or who sells or offers the seed for sale.

No seed may be sold if it contains any primary noxious weed seeds, namely, Quack Grass, Canada Thistle, Bindweed, Perennial Sow Thistle, White Top, Russian Knapweed and Leafy Spurge.

The state seed law provides for the State Seed Laboratory so that farmers and seedsmen may get their seed tested. Farmers wishing to have official tests made of their seeds should send their samples to the Seed Division.

U-M Finds Way to "Explode" Sugar Beets

New hope for Michigan's sugar beet industry may come from University of Michigan research which has produced a way to "explode" the beets under high steam pressure. This provides a fast, cheap method of making the juice available for purification. Left to right with the pilot model of the "high pressure beet gun" are: Lloyd E. Brownell, professor of chemical and metallurgical engineering; and Tee Lee and S. A. Zieminski of the U-M Engineering Research Institute.

ORCHARD NOTES

By C. Fairman

Wind breaks were a topic of discussion at the Horticulture Society at Traverse City, Tuesday, March 17th. Some growers thought that spring frosts during bloom caused more damage than wind. As with most other orchard practices, it is for the grower to figure out according to his particular lay-out. Southwest, west, Northwest winds could be broken by planting pines if there were lower land to the east for air drainage or if there were a long ravine running to the north.

Otherwise wind break trees should be used that sheds its leaves such as maple, silver maple, Lombardy poplar, etc.

While there wasn't considerable damage done by wind last year, it is well to be prepared as some times we have wind damage of tenner. The trick is to lay it out so that you miss wind damage and also spring frost. Orchards that were planted where it was nearly surrounded by large forests are sometimes unprofitable from frost. Wind breaks are OK if there is air drainage. The choice of orchard sites is becoming more important. Slopes running to the east are better for orchards.

MICHIGAN OUTDOORS NEWS

Vast deposits of low grade iron ore are being investigated in the upper peninsula as a possible additional source of metal for industry.

Conservation department geologists say one area where large deposits of this ore are found is a stretch of about 40 miles between Marquette and Nestora. One plant already is in operation in this area, west of Michigamme, producing ore from the "Ohio Mine." Two others are scheduled in this "Marquette range," one near Humboldt, the other at Republic.

Geologists say ore being produced from the Ohio Mine contains about 40-45 percent of iron. For economical shipment, rock particles and other minerals must be removed from this ore at the mine. This is done by grinding, screening and other methods. By this process of beneficiation the percentage of iron in the ore is made higher; ore from the Ohio Mine, for example, is raised from the original 40-45 percent iron content to 50 - 55 percent when ready for shipping.

High grade ore deposits, such as found around the western end of Lake Superior, contain this 50-55 percent of iron in the natural state so that costs of beneficiation are eliminated.

Deposits of low grade ore in Michigan have been estimated as extensive enough to produce 725 million tons of blast furnace concentrates. During recent years, the total Great Lakes production of ore has been about 96 million tons each year.

South Arm Farm Bureau

The March meeting of the South Arm Farm Bureau was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Coolman. There were 12 members and 4 guests present.

Mr. J. M. Ingalls reported that the County Board of Directors wanted each Community Group to try to get 3 more members. Three names were suggested and those people will be contacted before the next meeting.

Mrs. T. F. French reported on the last County Womens Meeting held at the home of Mrs. Homer Nasson. That group would like suggestions from the various community groups concerning projects to be taken up as a county. She also read the names of ladies on committees for the all county Rural-Urban meeting next fall.

The discussion leader, Walter Fowler, then took charge. The topic for discussion was "Should Michigan have a system of toll roads?" The group voted against such a system at this time.

Mrs. George Klooster presented a very interesting and amusing relay race using pocketbooks, canvas gloves and gum.

Mrs. Delbert Ingalls very ably acted as secretary due to the illness of Mrs. Bernice Fowler.

Signs of spring have blossomed in many of Michigan's state parks in recent days, and park managers are putting the final touches to their winter's work in preparation for the coming season.

The year is expected to be a big one. Last season, more than 13 million persons visited the parks, blasting all previous records for attendance.

Managers report fair weather has already brought hundreds of early visitors to the parks. A dozen types of birds were reported active in one park, and small animals are on the move in some areas.

Also, sad to relate, the first act of vandalism has been reported. Vandals tried to remove an entrance sign at one park. Fail this they smashed the sign and departed.
