OUR WEATHER
A week of hot, sticky weather with highs in the upper-80s ended when Friday ushered in another glorious weekend. Humidity vanished, skies brightened to a cloudless blue and temperatures dipped to a comfortable mid-70s range. Thunderstorms waited until late Sunday night to break; Monday dawned overcast and rainy, with more of the same predicted for the rest of the day. The long-term outlook calls for a return of hot weather for the rest of the week.

August meeting rough for city council

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Contributing Writer

The atmosphere was tense and adversarial at the East Jordan City Council meeting August 17. East Jordan businessman Arlon Leonard was particularly vocal in his condemnation of nearly all the council's actions. Leonard made several accusations during the course of the meeting and finally walked out angrily.

Although many of the issues were controversial, the most emotional item was introduced by council member Lyle Etcher. Etcher proposed a reprimand of city clerk Kathy O'Rear, treasurer Susan Moreau and DPW foreman William Breakey for the unprofessional behavior characterized by a document introduced at the July 22 hearing on charges against Breakey. The document, on a city purchase order form, alluded to sexual favors between the city office workers and Breakey. Both women volunteered at the hearing that the document was a joke, and part of an ongoing pattern of jokes and obscenities meant in fun. At the hearing, council member Guy Vallance expressed concern over the issue, though it was dropped from the charges against Breakey. Vallance seconded Etcher's motion to reprimand. Council members Greg Chappuies, Jerald Cihak and Mayor Russ Peck opposed the motion. Members Etcher, Vallance and Ruth Gee supported the reprimand. Council member Russ Gee was absent.

Because of a lack of majority, the motion was not adopted. After the meeting, Moreau said she could understand the council's concern over public perception. She feels it is a misunderstanding that could have been prevented.

"If it could have been brought to us before the hearing, we could have taken care of it and it wouldn't have gotten to the public," Moreau said.

Parking - Parallel or angle?

A request by Police Chief John Imeson to consider changing the status of Main Street parking provoked another debate between council members and the audience.

Imeson made the original request at a June council meeting, but the subject was tabled so informal opinion surveys could be carried out.

Imeson recommended the change for several reasons, including safety in backing into traffic and pulling out onto Main from cross streets.

The state of Michigan could withhold funds if the city is unwilling to comply with a statute that requires

New Torch/Journal editor named

With the return of summer editor Jennifer VanConant to college, Up North Publications welcomes a new editor for The Torch & East Jordan Journal.

Lynn Geiger completed her undergraduate work in Communications/Journalism at the University of Michigan in the Spring of '92. She chose to return to northern Michigan after developing a strong sense of community and small town ways, having grown up in Suttons Bay.

In addition to her new responsibilities here at the paper, Geiger is hoping to continue the free-lance writing she has been doing for Traverse City's Northern Express.

Geiger is looking forward to learning more about this part of northern Michigan as well as meeting the local residents. She hopes to do some of her exploring of this side of Grand Traverse Bay on her mountain bike, just one of the many outdoor activities she enjoys.

Coverage missed Kiddie Fun Show

I enjoyed reading about all the activities of the recent Firemen's Benefit at Eastport, but was surprised to see no mention of the Kiddie "Fun" talent show and modeling exhibit. Many local children and campers took part in the event and had a ball. The audience obviously enjoyed watching the kids show off. Volunteers Martha Dodge and Bev Christian did a great job of coordinating for the children, and giving each kid a few moments in the limelight.

Play auditions scheduled

Auditions for adult and children actors to cast Baba Yaga, a musical fairy tale, will be held on Thurs., Aug. 26, at East Jordan High School.

Children and adults who are available should report at 3 p.m. Adults not available for afternoon auditions should report at 6 p.m.

Production is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24 to 26 at East Jordan High School auditorium. Actors must be available for rehearsals three to four times a week starting Mon., Aug. 30.

Two adult soloists are needed, and all roles require singing in the chorus.

The play has 13 speaking parts, and parts for an additional 12 actors to portray the living set and contribute sound effects to convey the frightening atmosphere of the forest where Baba Yaga lives.

Baba Yaga, based on a Russian fairy tale, was written by Kansas playwright Ric Averill. The play is new and unpublished, in keeping with the tradition established by the Jordan River Arts Council and its theatrical arm, Jordan River Players.

Paper's support appreciated

ON BEHALF OF the Friends of the Central Lake Library, we want to thank you and your publications for the excellent publicity you gave our Children's Summer Library Program.

We had an overwhelming response this year, and feel your newspapers played a large part in the program's success.

EJ council faces tough issues

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Contributing Writer

Several controversial issues emerged at the Aug. 17 meeting of the East Jordan City Council.

Problems with Elm Pointe access were discussed. The Parks and Recreation committee proposed short-term permit parking for the area located next to the museum and residence.

Mayor Russ Peck questioned allowing the park caretakers authority to issue permits, citing a recent problem at a wedding reception. Apparently the caretakers were abusing their privilege to park near their residence, leaving no room for the group that leased the lodge.

Other council and audience members reported similar incidents. Rudeness and verbal abuse from the caretaker were also mentioned as recent problems.

The process for defining and providing the permits is in the development stage. "We've never tried this before," said Superintendent Bob Johnson, "so we'll have to experiment with ideas. We don't have all the answers yet."

Johnson called the permits a step toward resolving a problem that has occurred this year because of expanded public use of the facility.

"Elected officials are responsible only to their constituents," commented Beatty.

At the council's request, Beatty will develop a process by which a council member may be disqualified from attending a meeting.

Zoning change denied

AJ Auto Parts and Repair Center owner Eliseo "Al" Cesaro approached the council to request a change in zoning for his State Street business. Cesaro had obtained a recommendation from the planning commission to grant Commercial 2 status to the property.

The business is presently zoned Professional/Office. According to officials, Cesaro has been operating in violation of the zoning ordinance, despite several notifications by the city.

His alleged violations include performing auto repairs and retail sales, as well as excavation without a permit.

Council member Greg Chappuies explained that the East Jordan City master plan does not allow C2 (described as heavy or commercial use) variance in a residential zone. Other C2 uses of the area were in place before the plan. Chappuies said the trend will be away from commercial use in that area.

The planning commission will be notified of its error in making the recommendation.

Chappuies offered Cesaro the alternative of applying for a C1 variance. According to the master plan, C1 is more compatible with the neighborhood surrounding Cesaro's business.

The C1 zoning would allow Cesaro to continue his auto parts sales, but would disqualify the repair work.

"Am I supposed to be going out of business now?" asked an angry Cesaro before walking out of the meeting.

Drug policy reviewed

The Public Safety and Personnel committees met jointly to discuss the recently implemented drug policy for city workers. Council accepted the committee recommendation that the drug policy remain as adopted. The council clarified that its own members are expected to abide by the policy provisions.

City attorney Scott Beatty warned that the policy will be difficult to enforce against council members.

Art auction will benefit Women's Resource Center

"Women's Work," the seventh annual art auction sponsored by the Women's Resource Center, will be held Thurs., Aug. 26, at Stafford's Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

"Women's Work" was originally started as a new way for the center to raise money while at the same time making it possible to showcase the exceptional talent of women artists living in and around this northern Michigan community.

Since then it has continued to flourish and has expanded over the last couple of years to include couples working as partners to produce something beautiful and lasting.

This year the work of over 60 artists (approximately 150 pieces) will be auctioned off (some during the silent auction and some in the live auction). Mediums will include pottery, jewelry, baskets, stained glass, blown glass, wood furniture and bird houses, clothing, origami, home furnishings and kaleidoscopes, among others.

"Women's Work" can be previewed beginning at 4 p.m. A silent auction will run from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. and will include work from many of the artists.

Tickets are $7 per person and include a bid card and catalog. Complimentary hors d'oeuvres will be served, and a cash bar (drink tickets) will be available.

Organizers note that this is one of the largest annual fundraisers at WRC undertakes, and artists are very fair when setting minimum bids on each piece. It is not unusual for buyers to get a great piece of art at a very reasonable price.

Local author at Charlevoix bookshop

Writer, naturalist and sportsman Jerry Dennis has had his most memorable experiences on the lakes and rivers of northern Michigan, his home for thirty-five years. The public is invited to meet Dennis at Bridge Street Book Shop Fri., Aug. 27 from 6-9 p.m. as he introduces and signs his new book A Place on the Water.

Dennis relates his discovery of fishing, and his love for the environment and life on the water in sparkling essays, with captivating illustrations by leading wildlife artist Glenn Wolff. Blending memory and observation, his essays evoke the sensation of paddling a canoe across a still lake all night and the feel of a fine trout on a fly rod's line.

A Place on the Water is also a passionate and eloquent exploration of subjects with broad appeal: love of land, water, and a informed unsentimental appreciation of nature. His subjects range from the history of the tragic demise of the Michigan grayling to a fascinating study of the mayfly. This book is about a place loved by many - northern Michigan.

Jerry Dennis lives in Traverse City and is author of It's Raining Frogs and Fishes and Canoeing Michigan Rivers.

The Bridge Street Book Shop is located across from the Chamber of Commerce in downtown Charlevoix.

Meeting before recall: Errors, anger persist

BY MARY FREY
Editorial Director

The last meeting before the Aug. 23 recall election of township clerk Marilyn Lucas underscored the problems that have plagued the board in recent months.

agreed with those totals, noting, for instance, that only $7,000 was actually budgeted for WRS payroll. The board tabled payment on the bill, pending an investigation by Vernon and Shooks.

As in previous meetings, several sets of minutes were rejected for inadaquacies, but this time Vernon was prepared - offering a resolution authorizing the township to use his personal tapes as the official record of the April 21 meeting.

A third set of minutes, compiled by deputy clerk Vivian DeMorrow during the Lucas' July absence, was refused because the board judged them incomplete. Noting the absence of any record of a discussion on why previous minutes had been rejected, Vernon stated that the bare facts as presented put the board in an unflattering light.

"I suspect this was a deliberate attempt to be misleading," he stated - a charge emphatically denied by DeMorrow.

Another subject of discontent was a list of bills submitted by Lucas. Although several inconsistencies were explained as the result of late charges already paid, Lucas had no defense for one.

"I'd like to know how you can submit bills like this one for $98 to the Yellow Pages for an ad that was ordered by a Rev. Elmer Johnson," fumed trustee Bill Gadwau. "Don't you look at the bills before you recommend payment?"

"We do make mistakes, Bill," Lucas replied.

"I'd like to know how you can submit bills like this one for $98 to the Yellow Pages for an ad that was ordered by a Rev. Elmer Johnson. Don't you look at the bills before you recommend payment?"

Trustee Bill Gadwau to clerk Marilyn Lucas

Among the most serious were charges that clerk-supplied figures resulted in a miscalculation of workers compensation premiums, resulting in an unbudgeted additional charge to the township of $2,578.

Supervisor Paul Vernon questioned two payroll projection figures (on which the pre-paid premium was partially based), of $13,363 for "Care of the Township Hall" and $19,361 for payroll at the Waste Receiving Station.

Both Vernon and treasurer Cheryl Shooks disagreed with those totals, noting, for instance, that only $7,000 was actually budgeted for WRS payroll. The board tabled payment on the bill, pending an investigation by Vernon and Shooks.

"I am getting a little weary of playing the game of trying to get acceptable minutes," he stated, noting that corrections requested by the board were not incorporated in the resubmitted documents.

The resolution, against which Lucas cast the only nay, was subsequently repeated to cover minutes

Cihak appointed to East Jordan council seat

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Contributing Writer

In the midst of a controversial Aug. 17 meeting of the East Jordan City Council, Jerald Cihak was sworn in as the new Second Ward representative.

The circumstances of Cihak's appointment was one of the issues that evoked discussion at the meeting.

Mayor Russ Peck began by clarifying his statement to the press at the time of former council member Ralph Kitson's resignation.

"I am making a recommendation to appoint the winner of the Aug. 2 primary election (as Kitson's replacement)," said Peck. The mayor can only recommend. The actual appointment requires a council resolution.

Second ward council member Greg Chappuies submitted a motion to appoint Cihak to the seat. Because, under Roberts Rules, there is no discussion on the motion until after it is seconded, Chappuies' motion died for lack of support.

A discussion of precedents for resolving the situation followed. Some council and audience members were concerned that half the votes of the Second Ward would be disenfranchised if the seat was left vacant until November.

Concerns about giving Cihak an edge over his November opponent, Brian Sweet, were also voiced.

Referring to the city charter, Attorney Scott Beatty informed the council that the seat cannot be left vacant. There are no instructions in the charter as to procedure, however. This leaves the mechanism for the appointment up to council.

Chappuies presented the motion a second time and Ruth Gee supported. Cihak was appointed by voice vote with three in favor and two opposed.

Cihak, 47, is chief electrician at East Jordan Iron Works. As a lifelong resident of East Jordan and former firefighter, he believes he knows most of the people in town and will be more receptive to their needs.

SWORN IN AS the new Second Ward Council member in East Jordan last week was Jerald Cihak, here being administered the oath of office by city clerk Kathy O'Rear.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Denying Ourselves for Christ

"And he said to them, 'If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me.'"
— Luke 9:23

That was a strict charge Jesus placed on His disciples. They, in effect, were to forego their own lives to follow in His steps and echo the words He so lovingly taught them to those whom they would convert. The charge still stands. There can be no true faith without acceptance of the Christ and the precepts He laid out for us to follow. Love, charity, self-denial and belief in the one supreme God are challenges that try even the most devout, yet it is through adherence to those ideals that we too can daily shoulder our personal crosses in the service of Jesus.

Memories Taken from The Torch

Central Lake Torch
August 18, 1955

■ A happy reunion took place at the Elmer Neuman home last Friday evening when Mrs. Neuman's brother Henry DeForest of Red Willow, Alberta, Canada, dropped in for a surprise visit. Mrs. Neuman and Mr. DeForest had not seen each other for 45 years.

■ Ball field lights are almost a certainty in Central Lake according to reports from those in charge of soliciting funds from the progressive residents of this area.

■ Mrs. Fannie Klooster was brought to the Harold Nyland home Monday afternoon from Charlevoix Hospital, where she had been a patient since Wednesday, when she fell at her home in Atwood, fracturing a knee cap, cracking some ribs and collecting other bad bruises.

■ Miss Elsie DeJong had the misfortune to cut her thumb very badly while at work Thursday evening, necessitating a trip to Charlevoix Hospital where six stitches were used on the injured member.

■ The Central Lake Grandmother's Club will have a pot luck picnic at the Village Park, Aug. 23. Grandfathers and guests are invited. In case of rain it will be in the basement of the Congregational Church.

■ The Eastport Firemen's Field Day was a grand success, enjoyed by a large attendance.

■ The 80th birthday of Mrs. Hattie Bergsma was celebrated at East Jordan Park Saturday.

■ Last week, Mr. Boss received a letter from an old friend Mrs. Lila Mae (Madill) Durgan who resides in Miami, Florida. She also sent a clipping from the Miami Herald, about Mr. Tracy Boss who is serving his 47th term as Clerk of Banks Township or since 1905 and has held the job continuously since then except for a four-year period when he took time out to operate a farm. It was similar to the clipping sent from Fairbanks, Alaska, not long ago to Mrs. Adrian Postmus. Lila was surprised and thrilled to read Ellsworth news in the Miami Herald.

LifeLink PLUS TAKES AWAY THE WORRY ABOUT AMBULANCE BILLS!

LifeLink Emergency Medical Service Technicians Jay Neff and Kathy Thompson of Bellaire transport a patient to the ambulance.

LifeLink is proud to announce that Advanced Life Support is now available to Bellaire area residents. Advanced Life Support offers many advantages:

1. Advanced Life Support allows LifeLink trained Emergency Medical Technicians to provide advanced treatment at the scene of an emergency. When time can mean the difference between life and death, LifeLink Paramedics now are able to start IVs administer drugs, and begin cardiac monitoring.
2. Advanced Life Support means you'll receive life-saving care quicker and before you arrive at a hospital. Advance Life Support is vitally important to area residents who have to travel 35 miles or more to a hospital.
3. Advanced Life Support will save you money. Patients will no longer receive two ambulance statements, one from LifeLink and a second from an "intercept" ambulance. You'll receive one easy-to-understand statement.

To further your savings, LifeLink is offering special membership in its LifeLink Plus Program. Did you know Medicare and many other insurances will not cover the entire cost of an ambulance bill? Many companies only pay half the cost of emergency medical services, leaving you the balance. LifeLink Plus membership qualifies a household for unlimited emergency ambulance service and transportation for all doctor-approved transfers within a 75-mile range that are medically necessary to and from hospitals and nursing homes.

Now the residents of Bellaire area can protect their family from these unexpected bills by joining LifeLink Plus. LifeLink Plus membership is being extended until September 15, 1993, to allow Bellaire area residents to take advantage of this special $39 annual fee program. Join the more than 4,000 residents from throughout northern Michigan who have taken advantage of this offer, as explained in a recent membership application you've received in the mail!

To learn more about LifeLink and the LifeLink Plus Program for Bellaire area residents, call our toll-free number, 1-800-533-7178!

A historical perspective of the Gleaners in

Just before the turn of the century, due to the lack of transportation and communications, there was a great need for meeting places and recreational facilities in the rural areas of Michigan.

In 1894, a Mr. Grant H. Slocum of Caro met some of these needs by organizing the Insurance and Fraternal Establishment under the name of the "Ancient Order Of The Gleaners."

Patterned after the Grange, Oddfellows, Macabees, etc., it kept that name until 1931, when it was changed to "The Gleaner Life Insurance Society."

Around 1900, the Gleaner Maple Arbor was formed and located on donated land, half-way down the Densmore Hill in Echo Township.

I know William Spence donated most of the land, and I believe my grandfather, Norvell, a civil war veteran, furnished some of the land to the North. The Gleaners supplied the building material and local labor provided the carpenter work.

The Hall was located on the south side of Old State Road.

The horse barn was just to the east and accommodated stalls for about six teams. A picnic grounds could be found across the road, complete with refreshment stand, a stage and dressing rooms, plus rustic seating on the side hill facing the stage.

The Petrie Sugar Bush occupied the same site for many years after the picnics were discontinued in the mid-20s. The old barn survived till the late 30s.

The Hall was about 30 by 45 ft. The outside was covered by simulated brick pressed in a brick red sheet metal. The dance hall section upstairs walls were covered with embossed cream-colored sheet panels, resulting in very good acoustics. The dance floor was waxed hard maple and very beautiful. The cooking and dining area was downstairs and rather unfinished. A long rustic table down the middle was covered with red oilcloth. The benches were attached and you had to step over to get seated. The wood cooking stove was a large institutional type shaped like the old Home Comfort Ranges.

The lighting downstairs was from a battery of kerosene lamps and the dancing area had an early double-mantle gasoline lamp hanging dead center. A platform for the piano, fiddler and caller was at west center. The walls had the usual pictures of Washington and Lincoln hanging and I believe they had another showing field workers, titled "The Gleaners."

Over the years, formal lodge meetings were held and one of the pictures shows a 1912 vintage Degree Team, a highly trained and uniformed drill group, used for entertainment at lodge meetings and picnics.

For many years Howard Spence and my father, Hugh, managed the Saturday night dances. Efton LaValley and Eva King were hired for the music. I remembered they were paid $15 per evening.

There was a raised area over the stairwell where we kids were allowed to sleep. I still have a love for fiddle music that sort of filtered into and out of my head as I dreamed away.

We were all awakened for lunch time. My mother Madge and Sylvia Spence furnished the food. It was always good, but I liked "Oyster Stew Night" best. They were stewed in a five-gallon lard can, sold for 50 cents a bowl, crackers and coffee included.

For the picnics, Dad always ordered, by train from Traverse City, a barrel of cones a couple of five-gallon tubs of Velvet Brand ice cream, a couple cases of Cracker jack, a case of candy and two bunches of bananas.

Sylvia and Mother ran the stand. Ice cream sold for five cents a cone. Cracker jack and a bananas were also five cents each. My aunt Pearl, being an ex-school teacher, used to organize skits, poetry recitation, etc., for picnic entertainment.

I have heard that black minstrels and plays were given in earlier years. The singing was very good as no radio or TV was available and so people did a lot more for themselves in those days.

I attended my last Gleaner Picnic in 1923. The coming of WWI and the great Depression caused a decline in the Gleaner organization.

As people moved to the cities, membership diminished. Our family moved to Metro Detroit in 1924 and I know my parents kept up their insurance payments till 1930.

Gleaner Hall - Pleasant Valley 1910

I know very little of the Eastport Gleaner race track, and picnic area. The present camp sites face the old oval track, and the picnic ground and beach have been popular for 100 years.

About 20 years ago, the late Walter Petrie, an old neighbor, told me my grandfather used to hitch up a couple teams of horses and take the Pleasant Valley Sunday School classes out there on the Fourth of July. Walter said Norvell never failed to put on his uniform jacket and cap, buckle on his Cavalry saber and make a patriotic speech.

The Echo Township Gleaner area must have been biodegradable because the old hall and barn area is completely covered with 10 and 20-foot high maple trees. Maple Arbor was a well chosen title.

I LOVED THIS BOOK

LA Times by Stuart Woods

If you are expecting the usual Stuart Woods characters, you will be pleasantly surprised. There are no good ole boys with string ties and seer-sucker suits drinking mint juleps and saying, "Thank you Ma'am," with a southern aristocratic bow. This book is plain "hardball."

Vinnie Callabrese, the prime character, is a New York sleaze. A cheap, two-bit, mob strong-arm artist who enforces the will of the local mob on local merchants. However, Vinnie has an artistic flair for making movies ... and that's where it all begins. His first film is so successful that he goes to Los Angeles, changes his name to Michael Vincent and with instant success come some well-deserved economic and physical confrontations.

The dialogue is earthy, the characters believable, and the plot rolls along with only a few hiccups along the way. After reading this book you will understand why pictures are so expensive to make.

Big Brothers and Sisters sponsor fishing event

The fifth annual Cherry Capital Bass Angler's fishing tournament for children served by Big Brothers and Big Sisters is scheduled for Sat., Aug. 28, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Holiday Campground on Silver Lake.

Twenty-five boys and girls who are not yet matched with Big Brothers and Big Sisters will experience a first taste of what having a special volunteer is like. The children will be paired with volunteers from the bass angler's club for a morning of fishing, boating, and an awards picnic.

The bass angler's fishing tournament is one of many Big-for-a-Day opportunities available for children waiting to be matched.

"It's tough waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister," said Kay Vandervort, Executive Director. "Some of our children have waited for as much as a year. These activities help make the wait a little easier for the children."

Persons interested in volunteering or finding out how their club or service organization could sponsor a Big-for-a-Day activity should call Big Brothers/Big Sisters at 946-2723.

"Watch out, deer!"

Those hazy summer evenings, when there's just a hint of fog in the air, making the road a little tough to see—these are the nights the deer like to roam the highway. This doesn't help Michigan drivers—deer can be as dangerous as another car; they blend into backgrounds, and leap out quickly from the roadside. In Michigan in 1991, there was a total of 48,233 deer-related automobile crashes.

Being alert in fog or darkness, especially on rural roads, is one way to prevent another animal crash, but buckling up prevents you from becoming a casualty in a wildlife accident. Watch for animals on the roads—and remember to buckle up.

NOTICES

DEAR AL, I agree with you that it will be wonderful to see what Heritage will be bringing to the Bellaire Rotary Antique Show over Labor Day weekend. I also just heard about a special new dealer, Alice Dewey, from "downstate." Her display ability is mind-boggling and her inventory of country is sheer quality. Chinamanics will be well pleased to check on Antiques by Noella, but, Al, we'll just want to take plenty of time, do lunch, and see it all. Then we can even take a dessert break mid-afternoon—what a day! Shanty Creek Resort is the perfect place for this fine show. Love, Rhea. Al, did you know that Rotary gives all of the profit from this show to charity? And that it's famous all ready? c/135-36-1-1tc

August meeting rough for council

parallel parking on major streets.

Imeson also recommended dropping the posted time restriction of an hour.

"We cannot enforce the restriction in a fair and consistent manner," Imeson explained. He noted that lack of funding prevented the department from hiring a parking officer for the past two years.

Main Street business owner Arlon Leonard challenged the council to replace the lost parking. His estimate was that 10 places would be lost.

Leonard also charged that city council is attempting to disrupt Main Street businesses with the change.

Mayor Russ Peck pointed out that three new city parking areas have been developed recently: the marina, behind Jordan Valley Pharmacy and across the City Hall.

Linda Snyder, co-owner of Busy Bridge Antiques, is opposed to the change. She expressed concern that if the time restriction is lifted, visitors to the Charlevoix County Senior Center will park on the street for the full day, impeding downtown business customers.

Snyder suggested waiting until the anticipated Downtown Development Authority goes into effect. The issue could then be tackled as part of a master plan for the Main Street area.

The state currently has taken no action to enforce the statute.

"I don't see any compelling reason to make the change at this time," said council member Greg Chappuies.

Council member Ruth Gee supported Snyder's suggestion to wait on the DDA.

All council members remained silent when the resolution to implement parallel parking and to drop the time restriction was read, effectively killing the issue.

Give the gift of life

The American Red Cross is sponsoring a blood drive in Charlevoix County on Mon., Aug. 30. Donors may give blood from 1 to 6:45 p.m. at the Harvest Barn Church on Nichols Street in East Jordan.
